Dairymen Honor Yoder & Hutchinson

CAMP HILL — Two prestigious dairy awards were presented here Tuesday evening at the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association annual meeting in the Penn Harris Motor Inn. The Charles Cowan Award, given each year to an active dairyman in recognition of leadership and concern for the improvement and promotion of the Pennsylvania dairy industry, went to Sam Yoder, Shoemakersville, in Berks County.

And the 1988 Extension Award was presented to Dr. Larry Hutchinson, Pennsylvania State University professor of veterinary science

Yoder was called Mr. Milking Shorthorn in Pennsylvania and was credited for his help to organize the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show and his work with the Kutztown Fair. He has shown cattle at many local, state and national shows including the Pennsylvania Farm Show for 34 years. Yoder has been involved with the Hamburg area school board for more than 20 years and with the vo-ag advisory committee.

Hutchinson has been involved with seven research projects including ones involved with sulfa residues in veal calves reproductive problems in dairy cattle and currently with a four-year project on Johne's disease In addition to dairy cattle, Hutchinson has worked with most all species of farm animals, beef, cattle, sheep, swine and dairy goats. Major areas of work have involved reproductive management, milker schools and

Champion Steer

Ten-year-old Joshua Cowell, Waynesburg (Greene County), showed the grand champion steer on his first try at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. Boyd Wolff, State Agriculture Secretary, made the presentation of the banner. Joshua, a fifth grade student at Margaret Bell Miller Elementary School, said he and "Coal" spent a lot of time together in the past months.

The reserve champion was shown by Mike Messick, Middletown (Dauphin County), who had the grand champion for the past two years. The full steer show story along with the sale of champion prices and the Jr. Beef Breeding results are planned for next week's issue.

Beef Council To Use Humor In Promotion

HARRISBURG, PA — Encouraged by recent consumer turnaround in attitudes toward beef consumption, the Pennsylvania Beef Council is moving forward in an effort to solidify positive perceptions at the retail level The Council has developed an aggressive 1988 promotional program which addresses the health, nutrition, and economic benefits of cooking with beef in a humorous and educational manner. Bearers of the meaty message are a team of professional spokesmen appropriately dubbed "The Beefcakes."

Responding to studies which show that health issues and recent anti-meat campaigns have confused and frightened consumers, the Beefcakes have embarked on a statewide educational tour to inform the public that beef is healthful, non-fattening, convenient, and economical. At each appearance they will articulately demonstrate light and easy beef cooking tips in an entertaining manner. Meticulously trained by The Pennsylvania State University agricultural extension service home economist Doris Thomas, The Beefcakes will prepare recipes, answer questions, distribute cooking literature on their tour

It's a boy born 5:15 a.m. last Sunday as the Farm Show was about ready to begin. Little Denise Lorish greets the new-born calf at Top O' Hill Jersey's exhibition from Chester County with owner Mildred Seeds. Denise is the daughter of Donald and Karen Lorish, Alberta, Berks County.

Tobacco Price Encouraging

The price of tobacco at auction for Type 609 increased Thursday to a point that has industry leaders excited. Eric Probst, auctioneer at the Paradise Auction, said the price had been down to .95 per pound. But on Thursday at Garden Spot Tobacco Auction, the leaf was bid up to 1.06 for a number of crops.

"We're excited," Probst said. "The farmers were saying we're not growing tobacco for this low price. So the buyers must have received the message."

An estimated 2½ million pounds of tobacco remains on Lancaster County farms. That's about 1 00 acres.

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Spillover strength from the late rally in soybeans pushed corn prices up to daily highs near the close. March closed 1-1/2 cents higher at $1.95. Activity today was choppy as corn seemed to follow gains and losses in the soybean pit. Long liquidation and position evening in front of tomorrow's USDA report kept prices lower throughout most of the session along with news that Taiwan's tender for 500,000 MT of US corn will be delayed.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybeans settled from 7 to 10 cents higher near the close. A late rally and new contract highs in soyoil provided the impetus for beans to rally. Trading in oil was in response to rumors that Algeria and Tunisia had bought veg oil and that Morocco would soon be following suite. The January option gained 7-3/4 cents and closed at $6.13 after posting a low early in the session of $6.03. A lower opening was dictated by long liquidation and position evening in front of tomorrow's USDA report.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures settled from 2-3/4 to 4 cents higher on a late short covering rally which was attributed to ideas that tomorrow's USDA report would reveal a reduction in stocks. Some selling earlier in the day was in response to reports of increased soft red plantings. News that the Soviets had rejected bids on Argentinian wheat because of the higher prices proved supportive as many now think they will come to us instead. March closed 4 cents higher this afternoon at $3.29.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle futures futures closed mostly higher in another choppy session. Trading continues to be in a narrow range and gains today were from 20 to 33 points higher. February lost 22 points coming under pressure from commercial spreading.

Sales were limited today by continuing strong cash fundamentals and support from the feeder pit. Front month feeders traded as high as $ 80.32 during the session and settled at $ 80.00, up 38 points.

CME FEEDER CATTLE SETTLEMENT PRICE: 01/09/88 $79.82 up $ .38.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: cash - steady to firm futures-steady.

New York and Philadelphia Frozen Egg Report

Tuesday, January 12, 1988

Prices trended lower on whole eggs and yolks while whites generally held unchanged. In some instances an unwillingness to separate because of a lack of interest for yolks forced users of whites to bid higher for product. Shell offerings were usually readily available and easily satisfied breakers needs. Floor stocks were in good balance to satisfy buyers needs.

Our Business Is To Sell Your Tobacco

TOBACCO FARMERS

PARADISE TOBACCO SALES

WE ARE STILL WORKING AS HARD AS EVER TO CREATE A BETTER MARKET!

It looks like the market is lowering on our top grades of tobacco, and we at Paradise don't think it should be! We feel we have one of the finest quality crops that we have ever offered for sale. Once again, we feel you in no way should take lower prices for your top grades of tobacco. It is this tobacco that should be MOST IN DEMAND!

We have created an option IF prices become unacceptable. We feel that we could create a better market if we would offer tobacco companies the chance to purchase a large volume (several million pounds) of tobacco. We have started a volume at Paradise, and we need support to increase the volume. With this option, you still go home with a nice tobacco check as a partial payment with the opportunity for more. Come to our sale on Monday or give us a call to find out more.

NEXT SALES

We will continue autions as scheduled and still give you the opportunity to sell tobacco at the sale.

Monday, January 18, 9:30 a.m.
Wednesday, January 20, 9:30 a.m.
Sales Every Monday & Wednesday mornings at 9:30a.m.

Receiving tobacco 5 days a week from 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. If you need a trucker, give us a call, we will arrange one for you.

- JUST REMEMBER -
YOU DON'T HAVE TOO FAR TO PARADISE
- THE FARMERS FRIEND -

OPINION

Targeted Farm Program Payments

There seems to be a growing concern among Americans that the farmers who most need help don't receive most of the benefits provided under federal farm programs. This year something just might be done to solve this problem, says Gerald F. Vaughn, University of Delaware Extension specialist in resource economics and policy. "Congressional attention could well be focused on revising the formula for making direct payments, so that a larger share of program benefits goes to farmers truly in need."

Limiting or capping the payments that can be received by large producers often is mistaken for targeting, Vaughn says. But while capping may remove the appearance of excessive payments to individual producers, it encourages farmers to reorganize their businesses to avoid the cap. As a result, program benefits are not redistributed as intended to farmers who are more in need.

"Proposals for targeting seek to base farm. program payments on a farmer's financial need," Vaughn says. "They generally urge that aid should be greatest to family farms of moderate size, which at this time need an income boost more than part-time or large commercial farms do."

Such targeting proposals usually call for higher payments to family farms of moderate size and progressively smaller payments to other farms, Vaughn says. Some proposals would require that payments go only to farm operators, not landlords.

"Targeting makes sense in relation to supplementing farmers' incomes, but it may be at cross purposes with other farm policy objectives," the economist cautions. Direct payments compensate farm operations of all size and ownership status for taking land out of production. Direct payments also made possible the 1985 Food Security Act's lower commodity loan rates, which are aimed at stimulating increased sales of farm products in domestic and world markets.

"Even so," Vaughn says, "Congress may well consider some revision of the direct payments formula this year in favor of the family farm of moderate size."

Other than this possible legislation, Vaughn says he "can't remember a time when farm program proposals have shown so little clear movement in any direction. The proposals that have been offered all seem to cancel each other out."

With the Food Security Act of 1985 not due to expire until 1990, Vaughn says Congress has little inclination to tackle complex farm program issues now. "What legislative action does occur," he says, "is likely to focus on the issue of targeting farm program payments. That's the only place where I see sufficient concern that may lead to prompt action."

So, farmers need to be thinking about how program targeting would affect them. Depending on the size of the change and how it relates to their particular farm operation, some producers would receive lower benefits. The general shift should be away from very large, commercial farm businesses toward more moderate-sized family farms.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Be Aware of Child Labor Laws

If you have boys or girls between the ages of 14 and 16 that plan to operate a farm tractor or machinery on a farm, other than your own farm, be sure they have the proper certificate. Under the child labor regulations, the law requires that those boys or girls between 14 and 16 years of age, be certified and carry a certification card before they are permitted to operate hazardous equipment. Some equipment listed under the law as hazardous are: a tractor with over 20 PTO horsepower, corn picker, hay baler, feed grinder, fork lift and many more. Again, on your own farm, your children can operate any equipment that you feel is safe for them.

The Certification process in most areas is through the Vocational Agricultural Department in the schools or through the 4-H Tractor Clubs. Contact either for more information.

To Attend Winter Meetings

This is the time of year that a lot of educational meetings are held and they're held during this season of year for a good reason — you have more time to attend meetings. During the spring, the summer and into the fall, there's just too much field work that must be done. Take the time to become acquainted with the meetings of interest to you and your operation. Some meetings are designed to reach certain production groups such as Dairy Days, Livestock Day, Crops and Soils Day and Poultry Day, but others are programmed to reach all agri-business people like the Financial Management, Estate Planning and Farm Transfer Arrangement meetings.

Also, many agri-business and lending institutions conduct meetings to keep you abreast of the changes in their organizations. We urge you to mark your calendar as these meetings are announced and attend as many as possible.

To Preserve The Topsoil

The spring of the year is an excellent time to develop some soil conservation practices on the land. Contour strips, slit tillage, terraces and diversion ditches can all be established before the 1988 crops are planted. These various methods of controlling water will not only prevent soil losses but will help hold more water on the higher slopes and fields. Good topsoil is a precious natural resource, and every land owner should make an effort to keep it from eroding. Farmers that are growing continuous corn should be very careful to keep their soil from washing away. In these cases terraces and contour strips can be established to help slow down the loss of both water and soil. Addition of extra organic matter in the form of crop residues and green cover crop will help keep the soil loose with a higher water holding capacity.

To Use The Farmers Tax Guide

I have to mention it, yes it is Income Tax reporting time again. For farmers this becomes quite complicated with the many changes in the regulations.

The Farmers Tax Guide is published by the Internal Revenue Service and is a real help to farmers and others who file for agricultural concerns. We have a supply in our office, as do other Extension Offices. They are also available from the Internal Revenue Service. Most farmers have their taxes filed by a tax practitioner, but you will find the tax guide very helpful in preparing your materials for the tax person. The filing date of March 1 for farmers rolls around rather quickly.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

CORRECTIVE LENS

January 17, 1988

Background Scripture: Matthew 7.

Devotional Reading: James 1:22-27.

My records at the optometrist's office say I am nearsighted and must wear corrective lens. Actually, I think I'm spiritually farsighted, because sometimes I simply can't see the "logs" in my own eyes, but have no trouble at all seeing the "specks" in the eyes of others. In fact, it's amazing how easily I can see those "specks" even at great distances. Furthermore, there's the problem of perspective -- those "specks" in the eyes of others look so big. On the other hand, the "logs" in my own eyes appear so microscopic that I'd swear there's nothing there.

What I need, I suppose, is some kind of corrective lens that will help me to see "specks" and "logs" in a true perspective. Actually, that's what the Bible does for me sometimes. For example, I read "Judge not, that you be not judged" (Matt. 7:1), and I can suddenly "see" that I have been doing just that: judging others. Understand, I don't come right out and say to someone, "You, sir, are not telling the truth!" There are ways of getting that idea across without being so obviously judgmental.

THE REASON WHY

Furthermore, in these rare moments of insight, I realize not only that I have been judging others, but also understand why I have been doing it. By judging others, I have been attempting to minimize my own failings. If I concentrate upon your "specks," I can manage to put out of my mind the "logs" in my own life. In fact, I very often find that what I am judging others for is something about which I am vulnerable, too. Therefore, I am critical of "pushy" people. The reason: I like to get my own way and "pushy" people get in the way. Neither do I like self-important people -- they detract from my own sense of self-importance.

Recently there was a great commotion in the media about a presidential candidate who, it was discovered, quoted people in his speeches without acknowledging it, and also was not entirely truthful about his academic record. Like just about everyone else, I was dismayed and thought the man was quite correct in withdrawing his candidacy.

Then I got to thinking about the charges against him. Suddenly it dawned upon me that I was not entirely blameless in either regard. I have often used other people's ideas and occasionally even their words without attribution. In fact, there are all kinds of books written to help preachers do just that -- Bible commentaries, books of sermons, sermon-starters, and so forth. I know there have been times when I've gotten credit for saying or writing something that was not original with me.

NOT BLAMELESS

As to leading people to think more highly of me than is justified, I can remember writing some resumes or applications that might be said to be technically misleading. In fact, there have been many times when the reality has been a lot less exciting and impressive than as I've presented it.

Thus, this political figure's difficulty with the media led me to examine my own life through corrective lens an I realized that I couldn't afford to judge others on these matters, lest I be judged with the same standards.

And how is your insight?

CARGILL HYBRID Alfalfa Focus #1 CARGILL HYBRID

Information to help you grow alfalfa more profitably

Multiple Pest Resistance: Good Yield Indicator

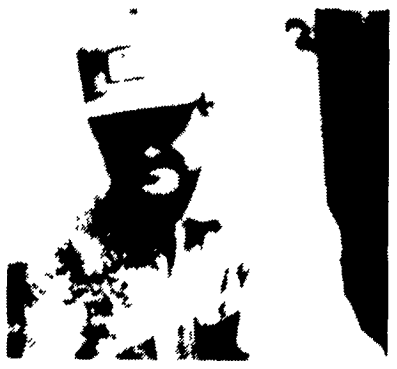
Profitable alfalfa production is the result of long stand life, excellent quality and high tonnage.

It's obvious that pest resistance contributes significantly to long stand life and improved alfalfa quality. But what is the relationship of pest resistance to yield?

At Cargill Hybrid Seeds we decided to investigate the relationship between multiple pest resistance and yield.

Using the official pest resistance ratings of the Certified Alfalfa Seed Council, a number of varieties with various degrees of pest resistance were selected.

We also compiled all published U.S. state yield data from 1982 to 1986 on the same varieties. These varieties were ranked on the basis of how often they out-yielded other varieties planted in the same state yield trial, a good indication of consistency.



By Dr. Jack Carlson, Product Manager

By comparing the two parts of the table—multiple pest resistance and percentage of yield wins—you can see the definite relationship.

For example, Crown, a variety with outstanding multiple pest resistance, also rated high on the yield scale, winning 64 percent of the time over other varieties planted in the same state yield trial.

On the other hand, Vernal, a widely-planted variety, exhibited resistance to only two of the major diseases and insects. Vernal ranked last in the yield column, winning only 23 percent of the state yield comparison trials.

The conclusion: Varieties with high levels of multiple pest resistance, such as Crown and Endure, have excellent potential to produce consistently high yields.

Here's a simple, provable truth for the dairy farmer who wants to improve his income: Patented Pro:Right RC can give you more milk from the grain fed. And that means higher profits.

It's a question of balance. . Pro:Right RC increases dairy feeding efficiency by regulating the types and amounts of carbohydrates and protein in a cow's ration. It works for all forage programs.

The results, as proven on farms like yours, and at the Agway Farm Research Center, are increased feed efficiency up to 10%, and increased milk production up to 13%. You can measure the difference in your bulk tank and your milk check.

Regardless of what some other feed companies may tell you, only Agway has Pro:Right RC, with its patented formulation process to help you get more milk per feed dollar.

Association Urges Crop Improvement

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

GREENCASTLE — The Franklin County Crop Improvement Association held its sixth annual meeting January 7 at Gibble's Restaurant. Wayne Kuhns, president of the association, conducted the proceedings.

Kuhns expressed appreciation to three retiring board members for their years of service. All had served two full three-year terms. Ken Schoenberg, Shippensburg, was the first president of the association, a position he held for three years. He was also a charter member of the state crop management board for three years. Nelson Wengert, Chambersburg, also a charter member of the state board, served the local group as secretary for four years and as treasurer for two years. John Martin, Chambersburg, was treasurer for four years.

William Swailes, Willow Hill, PA Crop Management Association Director, reported on a meeting he had attended in State College. Swailes, who is on a committee to draw up priorities for funds earmarked for the state's fourteen crop management associations, listed the actions that will be taken if the total $317,000 is received.

1. Have an expenses-paid coordinator.
2. Have an assistant to the coordinator to promote establishment for more crop improvement associations.
3. Give seed money to new associations.
4. Develop a way to receive payment for the crop information regularly fed by the local associations to Penn State for their research.
5. Hire graduate students in soil fertility, ag engineering, etc. to work for the crop management associations.
6. Hire a crop management specialist.
7. Finance student internships. Five academic credits would be available to students who work during the summer with a crop management association.

Martin Krone, senior technician of the Franklin County group, reported that the association had a good year, with a 20 percent increase in acreage over the first quarter of 1987. Current acreage is 12,600 acres on 61 member farms.

"Our stable membership is a plus," he added, "and the association is financially stable." He expressed appreciation to extension agent John Shearer for helping to promote this "unique service that no one else in the area can offer." He urged members to use their "talents and abilities to increase our membership and help other counties to increase theirs." Krone has been a technician in Franklin County for four years.

Troy Vanderau, a technician with two and a half years of service in the county, told the 105 people present that he "welcomes their comments and responses" so that the program can be tailored to each farm.

In closing the business portion of the meeting, Kuhns stated that the Franklin County association is the largest of the fourteen crop management associations in the state. "We're an alive group of productive young farmers," he said. "Use all the services to the best advantage you can."

Newly elected to the Franklin County Crop Improvement Association's board of director's for three year terms were, left, Harold Hoffeditz, Mercersburg; Roger Negley, Mercersburg; and Carl Wenger, Pleasant Hall.

He encouraged members to make their farms as productive as possible. "God has blessed us with the abilities to develop the earth He gave us," he concluded.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Ken and Lib Beaver, nature photographers, with a slide, music and narrative presentation entitled, "Nature's Gay Jewelry."

Franklin Receives Farm-City Award

HARRISBURG — Three counties received plaques on Monday night during the Secretary of Agriculture's Award Presentation in honor of their efforts to promote Farm-City relations.

Franklin County placed first in the 1987 Farm-City awards with Lebanon County receiving second standing and Berks County third. The following counties of Cumberland, Cambria and Somerset were not to be forgotten as each ranked as runner-ups. The Pennsylvania Grocers Association also received runner-up standing for its independent statewide effort to support and promote Farm-City relations.

Participants are judged on criteria including innovative approach, community impact, use of local agencies, citizen participation and rural and urban cooperation. Records of scrapbooks of activities or events that are kept by the participants, along with the amount of news coverage also aid in the judging criteria.

Farm-City Week takes place in Pennsylvania beginning the Friday before Thanksgiving through Thanksgiving Day. It is sponsored by local, state and national Farm-City Councils. The purpose of the week is to help create an understanding of the problems faced mutually by rural and urban residents.

Each year counties, groups and agencies are selected for activities that support and promote understanding between rural and urban areas of the Commonwealth throughout the year. This includes events such as job exchanges between city people and farm people and tours of industries, businesses, farms and food processing facilities.

Betty Wingert, St. Thomas, accepts the Farm/City Award from Dalton Paul, chairman of the Farm/City Council.

Awards Given By Swine Producers

The Swine Cooperative Award for outstanding effort and devotion to the purebred industry went this year to Dr. John Ziegler (right), retired professor of meat science at Penn State University. Dennis Grumbine, president of the Pennsylvania Swine Producers Association, made the presentation Monday afternoon.

Winners Named For Corn Use Ideas

HARRISBURG — In a special contest to find new uses for corn, Muncy Chief of Muncy, Pennsylvania, awarded three prizes for the best uses that were at least practical.

The winner of $500 for the first prize was Ralph Hurlbert, Great Valley, New York, who suggested whole corn and husks as fuel for an outside stove.

Second place of $200 went to Robert Deubler, West Easton, Pennsylvania, who suggested that national governments buy corn and feed the trout in coastal waters to regain numbers and some of their migration habits.

Third prize of $100 suggested the development of fabricated corn logs to use in place of wood in fireplaces and stoves.

Milton Hoffman made the presentations and announced the winners of the Farm Show.

Bucks County 4-H Teens Learn Communication Skills

DOYLESTOWN — Patrick McHugh, 13, Holland, and Joshua McMahon, 13, Ivyland, represented Bucks County at the Southeast Region 4-H Team Ambassador Weekend held in December at Camp Tel Hai, Chester County.

The 4-H'ers improved their communication skills as well as prepared to assist in publicizing the 4-H program. The title "4-H Teen Ambassador" designates that they have had training in public presentations, videotaping, and photography.

McHugh and McMahon are members of the Bucks County 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club.

Attending the weekend as a counselor was Ann Marie Dickson, 17, Richboro. Miss Dickson assisted in teaching the photography workshop. She is also a member of the 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club.

Youths Win Holstein Show

BY
EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG — A pair of youths paraded their veteran show cows to the top of the open Holstein show at the Farm Show Tuesday. After winning the youth show, John Foster III, Petersburg in Huntingdon County, had the senior grand champion and Tom McCauley, Elizabethtown, Lancaster County, had the reserve senior and reserve grand champion.

Foster's Globe-Run Sexy Darlene started the new year on top in front of the large Farm Show crowd. A four year old and classified E91 Darlene was All-Pennsylvania 1985 and 1986 and had grand championships at Martinsburg, Huntingdon and the South Central show last year. She is projected at 305 days at over 25,000 milk and 1100 fat and had the best udder of the show.

Metcalf's Valiant Beauty continued her winning ways for McCauley. This well-known Excellent show cow and daughter of SWD Valiant has won many other championships including a repeat from last year's Farm Show. Beauty also had the best udder in her class.

Franklin And Bedford Guernsey Breeders Top Show

BY PAT PURCELL

HARRISBURG — The Franklin County family of Marion and Mildred Benedict celebrated after the Guernsey show at the 1988 Pennsylvania State Farm Show. Three times they have taken home the premier breeder award for Long Lane Farm. This year they took home the premier exhibitor plaque for the first time in their 20-plus years of farm show competition.

The Benedict farm is home to 40 Guernseys and 20 Holsteins. Marion says he prefers the Guernseys, just because he was raised on Guernseys. In the Benedicts' 20 years of competing, Marion said the numbers have decreased, but the quality has constantly improved in the shows.

'My-T-Fine MMC Grace Tops Jersey Show

GINGER SECRIST MYERS
Adams Co. Correspondent

HARRISBURG — The epitome of her name, My-T-Fine MMC Grace handily captured the Grand Champion rosette at the Jersey Show at the 72nd PA Farm Show. "Grace" was exhibited by John and Cindy Batchelder, Avondale, Chester County. The couple, who have been married for less than a year, operate Star Point Farm with a herd of 80 Holsteins and 12 Jerseys.

"Grace" towered over her competition and had the best frame and balance of any cow in the show. She was the winner of the 5 Year and Over Cow Class.

Batchelder related that he purchased "Grace" in the 1985 Waverly Invitational Jersey Sale. She is currently scored Excellent 92% and has records to her credit of over 17,500 pounds of milk and 850 pounds of butterfat. She started her fifth lactation in November. On her first test she milked 60 pounds of milk testing 6.6% butterfat and 4.3% protein.

A cow that wears style like a smile, "Cashew" was just fresh in October. She missed her first test while she was at the NAILE in Louisville, KY, where she placed third in her class at the National Junior Jersey Show.

The Jenkins Family, Toughkenamon, Chester County, swpet the Junior Champion competition. Their winning Senior Yearling, Glengle SJ Netty, was selected as Junior Champion. Her stablemate, SV Justin Dallas, captured the Reserve Junior Champion title.

Pleasant Valley Jerseys, The Lester Martin Family, Chambersburg, Franklin County, capped off another blue ribbon day for their showstring by winning both the Premier Breeder and the Premier Exhibitor Awards.

Maulfair Captures Ayrshire Premier Awards

BY PAT PURCELL

HARRISBURG — Competition in the Ayrshire breed is getting tougher if numbers can be an indication of that. The Pennsylvania State Farm Show hosted 72 Ayrshires in the 1988 contest, second only to the number of Holstein entries.

A greater number means more animals are competing for the judges attention, but this year's judge, Gordon Demay of Palmyra, New York, found himself pointing the finger more than once at Dale Maulfair's animals.

Maulfair, of Jonestown in Lebanon County, had done well at the 1987 All-American Show in September and could only hope for the outcome of the state show. Maulfair said he was very happy to be selected for the premier breeder and exhibitor award and to have his herd take top honors in the exhitor's herd class.

The grand champion honors went to E. Keefer, Sr. and Shetterly of Millersburg in Dauphin County with Sycamore Mead RC Lover. Last year's big winner, Debra Shetterly, returned to take the grand champion title in the youth show with Sycamore Meade LK Lovely.

Maulfair captured the reserve grand champion title in the open show with Maulfair Acres H. Pansey. and Lona Rader of Butler County took youth show reserve grand title.

Angela Spickler capped off an excellent year in the Ayrshire competion. Spickler of Mt. Joy, Lancaster County, has taken several titles throughout the year on her way to earning the junior champion honors for the youth and open show.

PA Beef Council

While meat products in general have been much maligned in recent years, the team should receive a positive reception across the state, according to Paul Heffner, a Gettysburg feeder and chairman of the PA Beef Council. "Meat processers and marketers tell us that beef is coming back. Consumer studies show public attitudes are turning around in favor of beef."

He adds, "Beef and veal producers have seen a 34 percent rise in the market value of their animals in the past 12 months. This is probably due to the current supply and demand, leaner beef, and increased promotion."

Heffner credits several factors for the renewed consumer interest in beef:

- Active lifestyles foster an interest in meals that can be prepared quickly.
- New breeding and feeding techniques have produced modern beef that is leaner, has fewer calories and less fat.
- Beef provides a substantial amount of protein and other nutrients at relatively lower calories.
- Beef costs nearly the same as it did five years ago.

The Beefcakes have made their debut appearance at the PA Farm Show in Harrisburg on Wednesday, where they prepared and distributed samples of "Kid's Easy Beef Nachos" and answered consumer's questions. Easily identified by their red and white Beefcake aprons and chef hats, they were assisted by beef industry representatives. Other appearances throughout the state will be scheduled at a later date.

The Beefcakes Team promotion has been developed and coordinated by Kelly Michener Public Relations in Lancaster. Carefully coordinated with new marketing efforts by the national Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board, it is part of a comprehensive statewide promotional program being inaugurated by the Council. Thirty-five percent of the program's activities will be aimed at the retail market.

Robert Coleman, Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Beef Council, notes that Pennsylvania's beef, dairy, and veal industries are working together to produce a successful program. These promotions are funded by check-off dollars from Pennsylvania's beef, dairy, and veal producers. Under authorization from the Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board and the United States Department or Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Beef Council collects $1.00 per animal marketed. Half of these collected funds support in state programs, the other half supports national promotion and research.

The Pennsylvania Beef Council is a non-profit organization created in 1976 to develop and implement educational, promotional, and research programs related to beef and beef products. Based in Harrisburg, the council provides information to benefit both the consumer and the producer.

During the past year, the Council has expanded its program to include distribution of new recipes and beef/veal nutrifacts brochures; supermarket demonstrations of a Meat Features video; expansion of the Cattlemen's Queen activities; and use of the slogan "Beef: Real Food for Real People."

Included in the Council's current marketing plan in addition to The Beefcakes appearances, are radio and billboard advertising, special exhibits, seminars, newsletters for food professionals, and a Veal Cook-Off and Queen program.

Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® feeder can free you from your chains

We have probably been too modest up to now about the merits of our new generation ULTRAFLO® cage feeder vs. the old style chain feeders some of our competitors are still trying to sell you. In fact, the only negative comments about our feeder come from our competition, not our customers. So we would like to point out the bare facts:

FEED SAVINGS: On-farm results show a feed savings of ½ lb per 100 birds per day – over $10,000 per year savings on a 100,000-bird house Year after year

TROUBLE-FREE DESIGN: Our feeder has only two moving parts – the one-piece auger plus each drive wheel; their chain has more. Our corners are heavy 12 ga. zinc plated tubing for long life, their corners have a reputation for trouble and short life

PROVEN DESIGN: Over 10 million birds are already on our feeder worldwide. Also, it was proven in 5 years of on-farm testing before introduction.

EASY ADAPTABILITY: Ours adapts easily to existing cage systems you may already have. Or choose from our wide selection of cage styles

5-YEAR WARRANTY: Ours gives you a 5-year warranty on auger and trough Theirs doesn't. In fact, their dealers derive a large percentage of their income from parts sales. Ours don't.

MICROPROCESSOR CONTROL: Our control lets you program feeding time to the second, to match the exact time of one circuit. Control number of feedings, time of each feeding – also 10-second "Stimulation Cycles" between feedings, to minimize separation, and improve your birds' feed intake

HI-GRADING OF FEED: Our auger travels at 80 FPM so birds are limited from eating until it stops; birds will hi-grade feed from chain feeders, causing uneven nutrition.

REMIXING FEED: Our auger slowly revolves, remixing old and new feed; theirs leaves most old feed to get stale

BILLED-OUT FEED: Our auger acts as a grid to prevent birds from raking, piling, and throwing out feed, neither chain or disk systems prevent feed waste

COST SAVINGS: Ours saves vast amounts of energy costs since it's easier to propel and runs only half as long as theirs

LOW MAINTENANCE: With our 5-year warranty on auger and 20 ga trough (one competitor has only 22 ga.) – plus no corner wheel mechanisms to wear out – ours saves you maintenance costs

SIMPLE OPERATION: "Push-pull" Power Units with ⅓ or ½ HP motor are located in a cage, have hardened steel gears for trouble-free operation

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Live hog futures settled lower this afternoon reacting to expectations for higher runs on improving weather in the midwest. Further pressure came from ideas that futures had become overbought after last week's bullish enthusiasm in response to the Hog and Pig report. Losses in the February option were trimmed by ideas that packers were aggressively seeking bidders for a Saturday kill. February closed down 12 points at $ 45.65.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: cash - steady to lower futures - steady to weak.

mastitus control programs. Additional areas of concern for Hutchinson have been drug residue avoidance, animal welfare and proper ventilation programs.

Joyce Bupp, Lancaster Farming's York County correspondent, was introduced as the organization's new executive secretary and was welcomed to the position by President Wayne Beshore.

The guest speaker, James N. Putnam II, assistant vice president Farm Credit Banks of Springfield, Massachusetts, told of his involvement with a major study of the northeast dairy industry. This study was a joint effort by two Farm Credit districts, Penn State, Cornell and the University of Vermont. This study took a look at marketing issues from the farm gate to the final consumer of dairy products.

"In the northeast we are part of the national agricultural industry," Putnam said. "And the results of being on top of a big piece of the American market with our large population centers causes other parts of the country to look at our markets here. So we find ourselves competing with other areas," Putnam said.

Putnam listed some of the strengths and weaknesses of the northeast area. Close population, largest market in the world, diverse mix of dairy products, four strong marketing orders, strong consumer brands, strong research programs and most all production in Grade A. These were some of the positive things local dairymen have going for them.

"Our basic conclusion," Putnam said, "is that dairymen in the northeast, especially in Pennsylvania, are very competitive."

Kennedy Takes Brown Swiss Titles

HARRISBURG — Although the Brown Swiss competition at the 72nd Pennsylvania State Farm Show hosted a smaller number of animals, with 42 on the rolls, this show had the top examples of the breed making the judge's task a difficult one. The Kennedy family of Butler in Butler County dominated the second portion of the competition, but the junior competition was shared by many Mike Welsh of East Berlin in York County led his senior yearling champion into the junior championship of the open show. Joy Hess of Gettysburg in Adams County took the reserve junior title with her senior yearling heifer.

In the youth show Joy repeated her performance and Michael Kunkle of Jonestown in Lebanon County took the reserve junior title.

John L. Kennedy captured the grand championship with Four Seasons Gen Sunfire, in both the open and the youth show. Four Seasons Radar Kara took the reserve honors in both shows. It was James L. Kennedy who swept the premier breeder, premier exhibitor and the number one spot in the exhibitor's herd competition.

Dairy Nutrition School

Controlled Feed Programs Vital To Dairy Health

BY LISA RISSER

Gap — Formulating, controlling, and evaluating rations were the main topics covered in the third session of a dairy-nutrition school sponsored by Penn State's extension service.

The class, held on Tuesday, was led by Dr. Richard Adams, Penn State dairy nutritionist; Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County agent; and David Schwartz, Chester County agent.

Adams began the day by discussing ration programming. "Put to proper use sound programming can increase milk production, reduce feed costs, and improve a herd's health and reproduction," he said.

A feeding program requires careful consideration to balance the chemical and physical properties of forages and concentrates to meet the nutrient and roughage needs of a dairy cow. The program can be tailored to the individual cow, if the farmer has a conventional feeding system, or it can be composed for a herd's average cow, if a total mixed ration (TMR) system is used.

"The idea behind TMR is to present a cow with ration that is chemically and physically balanced 24 hours a day," Adams explained. "A TMR takes care of a wide range of production levels. You have to have a good deal of overage in order to care for a span of animals compared to feeding cows on an individual basis."

When using TMR, Adams advises having the herd divided into more than one group based on production. "Although it is entirely possible to have a 23,000 or 24,000 pound herd average with only one TMR group," he added. "The reason for more than one group is not for milk production or herd health, it's to reduce the feed bill.

Feed cows differently

Fresh cows should be placed on a high or herd ration within several days of calving, and first-calf heifers should be placed on a high ration when one is used because they need the extra nutrients for growing as well as milk production.

"Dry cows should not be on a milking-cow ration until they actually freshen," advises Adams. In the last two weeks of a cow's dry period, the nutrient tone is set for the entire lactation. By keeping her on the dry-cow ration, she doesn't receive excess nutrients that her body can't handle.

Much of a ration program consists of concentrates, which are used in balancing the diet for various nutrients that aren't provided in sufficient quantities by the forages. These nutrients include energy, protein, minerals, and vitamins. Concentrates also can contain feed additives such as niacin, methionine, isoacids, and antibiotics.

"The type of forages you feed will affect the type of concentrates you use," said Glenn Shirk. "And, as forages change, you must make adjustments in a ration's concentrate mix." This occurs at least three to four times yearly.

For instance, legumes are generally higher in protein and calcium content than other forages and corn silage is a low-protein, low-mineral, and relatively high-energy forage.

Another thing to remember is that the concentrates must be prepared properly for the cow to extract the maximum nutrient content. This is because adult cows don't chew, they swallow; so many concentrates must be ground. For instance, corn should be ground through ½ to ¾ screen, but not turned into a powder, which passes through the cow's digestive system too quickly for the micro-organisms to work on it.

Fine tuning rations

Adams covered several of the variables to be considered in fine tuning a ration:

•Fresh cows—start them at a total concentrate level equal to about 1 percent of their bodyweight the day they calve. Gradually increase this to two percent at about 14 days after freshening.

•Milking heifers—feed first-calf heifers two to three pounds of concentrate beyond that needed for milk production so that they have extra nutrients to grow. Second-calf animals should receive one to two pounds extra.

•Flesh considerations—thin cows should be given four to six pounds more concentrate daily than production warrants within a 2.5 percent of bodyweight maximum.

Fat cows should have grain reduced by a level of four to six pounds, keeping to a minimum of three pounds per head daily.

•Excessive drop—when cows drop more than 10 percent in production from the previous month, feed for only a 10 percent drop in production, or add back one pound of concentrate per two pounds of excessive drop.

•Fat-test adjustment—cows testing above herd average may need five to 10 percent more concentrate, while those below herd average may need five to 10 percent less concentrate daily.

Adams added that "when cows aren't cleaning up feed, most people cut back forage only rather than cutting back proportionately." When this occurs, the cow doesn't receive the proper amount of nutrients, which affects milk production.

Control what the cows eat

Controlling rations plays an important role in helping determine a feed program, according to David Schwartz. "Controlling rations involves watching the quality and quantity of forages and feeding practices."

He recommended testing forages and TMRs for moisture and nutrient levels four times a year or when changes occur. "Ingredients in TMRs should be tested for fiber, protein, energy, calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, and sulfur," he said. "Doing this will help keep the ration balanced.

"For example, if 24 pounds of haylage is tested and shows a crude protein level of 20 percent, the amount of dry matter in the haylage will affect how many pounds of protein there is in the ration. Specifically, 47 percent dry matter will yield 2.26 pounds of crude protein while 55 percent dry matter yields 2.64 pounds. The extra protein equals the level a cow requires to produce five pounds of milk."

Testing water for pH, nitrates, bacteria, hardness, temperature, and sulfur also is a good idea, according to Schwartz. He advises testing yearly in different seasons (in fall one year and spring the next) and keeping a history.

Other quality controls include making the ration palatable, eliminating any moldy forage, and feeding a forage higher than 58 percent total digestible nutrients (TDN). Schwartz also suggested watching feeding equipment such as conveyors, unloader augers, and mixers, all of which can change a feed's physical characteristics.

Controlling the quantity is as important as quality to a balanced ration. A feed program can be negated when the calculated amount isn't eaten by the cow. "Farmers should weigh the amounts of ration fed and refused at least monthly," Schwartz said. These figures should be checked against the recommended ration.

Feed scoops and other equipment used in feeding by volume should be calibrated by volume or weight. In addition, inventory disappearance should be checked against feed fed.

Other recommendations that Schwartz made are:

•Feed at least one forage and TMRs to a five percent refusal rate.

•Try to keep energy, protein, and mineral levels in the rumen as constant as possible, feeding more frequently if necessary. Conventional feeding should simulate a TMR as much as possible.

•Prevent bunks from overheating, but clean bunks just prior to feeding rather than the night before so the cows can eat during the night.

•Keep water bowls clean and fix leaking ones.

•Measure young stock twice a year as well as first-calf heifers to check their growth.

Cotton: An Agricultural Success Story

Cotton. To the U.S. farmer that word means success. The demand for American cotton has skyrocketed in the past two years. Consumer demand has never been higher, and cotton producers have never been more optimistic.

In a depressed agricultural market, cotton is the shining star.

This is evidenced by the fact that the United States' share of the world cotton market has tripled in the past year, and exports are three-and-a-half times their 1986 levels.

What are the reasons behind this dramatic turnaround?

Lower prices brought on by government farm policies, increased consumer demand for cotton goods and technological advancements that produce better yields all can be cited.

The technological advancements in the industry — such as better plant varieties, improved methods for growing cotton and revolutionary breakthroughs in harvesting equipment — are more sophisticated than ever, according to Jim Wilkins, Case IH product manager, cotton pickers. Case IH is one of two U.S. manufacturers that produce pickers.

"We are currently investigating the probability of even better yields when planting and harvesting in 30-inch rows instead of the standard 40," said Wilkins. "Initial results are promising and we may see even higher yields soon, not to mention substantial changes on the cotton pickers of the future."

The 1985 Farm Act also has contributed to the market turnaround by making U.S. cotton prices more competitive in world trade. This, along with aggressive promotion campaigns, has increased U.S. exports to 27 percent share of the market, a full 14 percent more than the nearest competitor, Pakistan.

Market trends that began in 1985 continue to show that consumers prefer 100 percent cotton and cotton-rich fabrics. Cotton's share of the apparel market increased slightly to a staggering 45 percent in 1986.

The cotton industry has undergone a remarkable transformation. U.S. government policies and world market forces have made cotton the 1987 agricultural victory for the United States.

INDIANA COUNTY GILT SMASHES RECORD FOR RESERVE CHAMPION HAMPSHIRE SALE

The reserve champion Hampshire gilt shattered last year's record sale of $770 by going for a phenomenal $1,050. "Colts Belle", raised by Clayton Winebark of RD 1, Rochester Mills, INDIANA COUNTY, was sold to David Holloway of Glen Rock.

The grand champion "Miss Super", previously owned by Strawbridge and McCleary of RD 2, Windsor, YORK COUNTY, was sold for $870 to Eugene Smith of Mt. Bethel.

The total sale of 26 Hampshire gilts was $10,840, averaging $417 per head.

YORK COUNTY DUROCK GILT BREAKS FARM SHOW RECORD FOR ALL BREEDS

David Holloway is one happy Duroc swine breeder today as his bred gilt, "Kay" broke the Farm Show record for all breeds with her sale earlier today.

Holloway of RD 2, Glen Rock, YORK COUNTY, received $1,608 from Crabtree Rohrbaugh Associates in Harrisburg. They plan to donate "Kay's" piglets for YORK COUNTY'S 4-H animal projects.

The grand champion Durock bred gilt exhibited by Clyde McConaughey of RD 1, Smicksburg, INDIANA COUNTY, was sold to James T. Parlett of Airville for $750.

Thirty-one Duroc gilts were sold for a total of $12,260, averaging $395.50 per head.

How To Use DHIA Records

The Lancaster County Extension Service is conducting several meetings on "How To Use Your DHIA Records to Make Better Herd Management Decisions." Each meeting has a different focus.

The first meeting is a basic one on learning more about your DHIA reports, the information they contain and how the figures are obtained. This meeting is held primarily for new members and for dairymen who want to learn more about their records. It will be held January 20 (Wednesday), 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center. Bring your own records with you. Lunch is your own; no reservations are necessary.

These last two meetings are identical and are being offered in two different locations. Lunch reservations are needed by January 20. Cost is $7. Call the Lancaster Extension Office (717-394-6851): The first meeting is Thursday, January 28 at the Country Table Restaurant in Mount Joy. The second one is at the Bart Fire Hall in Georgetown, on Friday, January 29. The hours for both are from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Orndorffs celebrate 40th Anniversary

BY PAT PURCELL

HARRISBURG — The tradition lives on in the Orndorff family. The Orndorffs of Waynesburg have competed in 40 Pennsylvania State Farm Shows. Charles B. Orndorff started it all in 1948 when he began raising and showing Belgians. Corbly and his sister Christina carried on the winning tradition by capturing the grand champion in the Belgian stallion division with their six-year-old, Orndorff Congolaise Supreme. They also took the reserve grand champion mare honors at the 72nd Pennsylvania State Farm Show with Orndorff's Supreme Laura.

Draft horse spectators, breeders, exhibitors and enthusiasts expect the Orndorffs of Greene County to take home a few blue ribbons. Last year the Orndorffs exhibited the Belgian grand champion mare and grand champion stallion. Their name has become synonomous with draft horse excellence.

The Orndorffs were making a nice sweep of first places and champion spots, but the Belgian Mare of Arthur E. Reist put a halt to that sweep. The Reists have a record of farm show winners. Reists' Carolyn's Cinderella took the honors.

Not to be confused with the Belgian horse breeders with the same name of Greene County, the Belgians of the Larry B. Orndorff family of McKnightstown, Adams County, has produced an outstanding stallion, Orndorff's Highland Hy-Hope which took the reserve grand champion title in the Belgian stallion class. Although they both raise Belgians and have gotten together to talk horses and the possiblity of family ties, according to Larry, they are not related.

In twelve years of showing and exhibiting this is the second champion Larry and his family have shown. In the 1986 State Farm Show, they took home the grand champion title for the Belgian Mare.

Please add the Belgian results sent up separately. Thanks.

Allebachs' Percherons And Clydesdales Are Victorious

BY PAT PURCELL

HARRISBURG — The Allebachs of Centre County were a force to be reckoned with in the Clydesdale and Percheron draft horse competition of the 72nd Pennsylvania State Farm Show. They swept all but three titles in both draft horse contests.

The Allebachs improved on their 1987 record when they took the rosette for the top Percheron stallion. This year's bounty included the top honors for grand champion mare and grand champion stallion, earned by Windmere's Roxanne and Windmere's Caesar.

Preventing them from making a clean sweep of the competition, William and Carol Kronen from Freeport in Armstrong County led their stallion, Hazlewood's Rena's Sam, into the winner's circle for the reserve grand champion honors. Reserve grand champion mare was awarded to Miss Jodi Laet from Pennwoods Percherons in Centre Hall in Centre County.

Clydesdale Champions

The Allebachs have a decided edge in the Clydesdale competition. In the five years they have exhibited at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show they have had three grand champions. Two of those champions are a full brother and sister to their grand champion stallion of the 1988 show. Ambassador's Danny Boy is the off spring of Double A Contessa according to Monica Allebach.

The grand champion mare, Ambassador's Tina Marie was exhibited by. Monica from the Allebach's Spring Mills farm. The reserve championship honors were captured by the mare, Lily of the Glen, exhibited by Jas and Dail Corl of State College.

George and Maxine of Hulse of Springville in Susquehanna County took home the reserve grand champion stallion title with

CHICKEN FEED IS BIG MONEY

Don't Waste It!

For fifty years BIG DUTCHMAN CHAIN has been carrying feed to chickens. And for fifty years poultry equipment companies, including Big Dutchman, have tried to find a better way. There isn't one...only other ways.

If you are a poultryman who is tiring of "pie in the sky" claims of extra cage rows per house and truckloads of feed savings... then look to Big Dutchman, the leader in poultry cage equipment systems. Take a "hands on" look at time-tested fully proven cage systems, to find out why producers are putting over a million layers every month into new Big Dutchman installations. Then look to the really successful poultry farms world wide and you will find Big Dutchman Chain carrying the load.

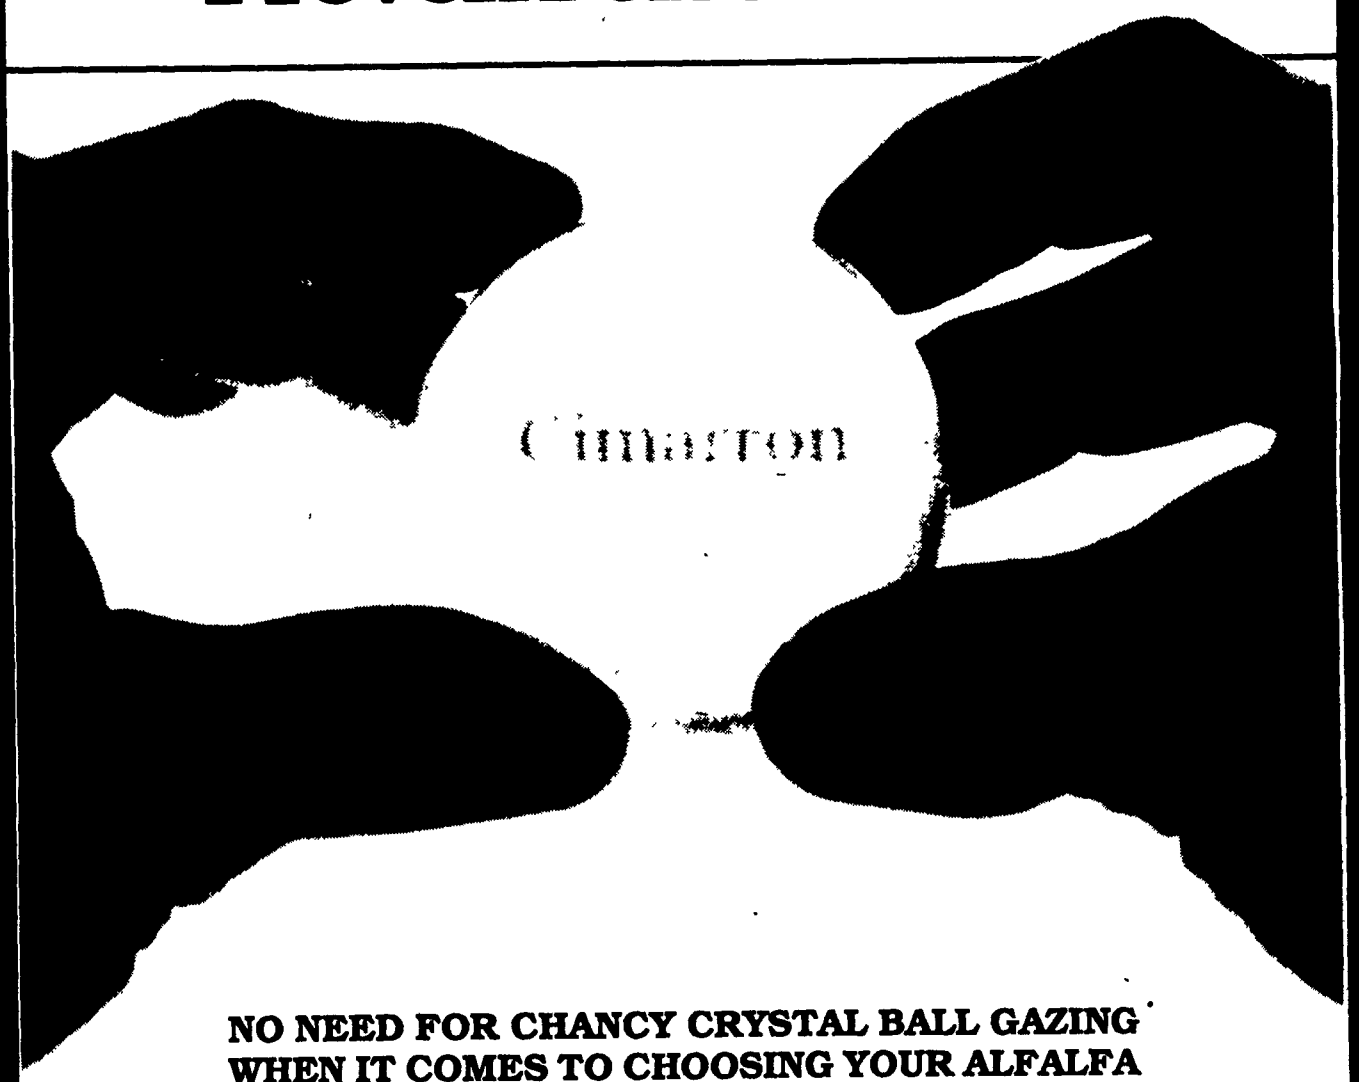
Cimarron Alfalfa
Proven Performance



NO NEED FOR CHANCY CRYSTAL BALL GAZING WHEN IT COMES TO CHOOSING YOUR ALFALFA SEED FOR SPRING

Harley and Carl Ross milk 80 cows to supply their jug milk operation near Sunbury, PA. Cimarron hay is the foundation of their feeding program. They cut high quality Cimarron at least 4 times a season. "We're happy with it - it sure does good for us," concludes Carl.

CARL ROSS

"We spring seeded Cimarron 4 years ago in 1984. It seems to be holding up real well for us - it's holding up better than the others... Cimarron's all we've planted since 1984," says Carl.

HAVING SOIL PROBLEMS?

Here's A Timely Tip...

Apply lime on frozen ground

Lime can be applied almost anytime however winter months are ideal because the ground is firm and the freezing and thawing action helps to disseminate the lime in the soil

NATURE WORKS BEST IN HUMANS AS WELL AS IN LIVESTOCK AND SOIL

TRANGRESSION HAS ITS SERIOUS PENALTIES, as the farmers are discovering in crop diseases, then consequently in livestock who eat the crops. Our products produce health and disease resistance.

Special and unusual health meeting for human health, ministering to their needs. The speaker David L. Klein from Missouri has over 25 years experience from Alaska to the Panama. He is proving that it pays to obey natural law in people as well as the soil. Working with nature, he gets results when others fail. He treats the cause instead of just symptons.

LOCATION

Leola Family Restaurant, on Rt. 23. Three miles east of Lancaster, seven miles west of New Holland.

TIME: Jan. 21st, 25th, and 28th at 1 o'clock and 7 o'clock p.m. sharp - there is much to say. Private counseling is available. He'll also speak on bad results of sick soil and crops to the consumers, and survival preparation for the coming bad times.

It's rare to find a hybrid in the 114 day maturity range that yields as well as 3475. In fact, it even outyields many hybrids of later maturity. But yields aren't the only reason to plant 3475. It also offers excellent tolerance to drought, resists leaf diseases like Northern Leaf Blight and Eyespot, and produces strong stalks and sturdy roots. First introduced in 1984, 3475's acceptance has been overwhelming. Plant some and see why.

3352

This hybrid has proven itself as the yield leader for its maturity. In this area, 3352 holds a significant yield advantage against competitive hybrids. Now, that kind of performance speaks for itself. But besides yields, 3352 has very good emergence and early vigor along with excellent stay green and leaf disease resistance against Northern and Southern Leaf Blights, Eyespot and Gray Leafspot. This hybrid is going to surprise a lot of folks.

3295 New!

When put to the test, this new hybrid outyields the competition. By 7.8 bushels per acre in 676 side-by-side yield checks to be specific. And that's just over the last year. Very good emergence, early vigor, large ears and tall plants are just a few of the hardy agronomic traits of 3295. It even has adequate resistance to most common diseases.

Blindness Doesn't Stop Roger From Farming

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin County Correspondent

ST. THOMAS — Roger Jones, 16, has been blind for five years. His problems began when he was fifteen-months-old and doctors discovered a cyst at the base of his brain. Although his vision was somewhat impaired, he was able to attend a regular elementary school and read standard print. He was even on a local Little League team.

Then, in January 1983, when he was in fifth grade, Roger developed complications. He spent six weeks in the University of Maryland Hospital's intensive care unit in a coma. During that time he had several operations to drain fluid from his brain.

After so many weeks of immobility, he needed extensive rehabilitation therapy, but several rehab hospitals rejected him because of his other physical problems. Finally, he began a three month period of rehabilitation at the John F. Kennedy Institute in Baltimore. He regained some muscle strength, but was discharged in July 1983 in a wheelchair.

Because the muscles of his throat were paralyzed, he was unable to eat, a condition that continued for two years. His mother fed him by means of a gastrostomy tube. She injected special food directly into his stomach with a syringe.

He could not swallow his own saliva. "We bought tissues by the carton," his mother, Janet, said. "Every time I fed him with the stomach tube, I had him chew hard pretzels for exercise. He couldn't swallow them, of course-- he had to spit them out-- but it was good therapy for his throat muscles."

Eventually he graduated to soft foods, and now can eat anything. "He's an eater," his father, Richard, said. Roger's favorite food is pizza-- the first thing he wanted to eat after removal of the gastrostomy tube.

When Roger was finally able to return to school in September 1985, he went without his wheelchair. He attends the Franklin Learning Center near Chambersburg and is a member of the visually impaired class. He used a quad cane for support at first, but now uses the standard white cane of the blind. He receives physical therapy at school which is improving his strength. His coordination is improving also, although he still has some trouble with his balance. To help Roger stabilize his balance, the physical therapist has him walk through the rungs of a ladder placed flat on the floor.

Roger and his brother Steve, 17, are members of the Franklin County 4-H Baby Beef Club. Roger has always been intensely interested in farming although his family does not live on a farm. "I have farm boys without the farm," Janet says.

Steve worked for a nearby farmer, Gene Wingert, who raises steers and hogs. One day, Steve asked Roger, "Would you buy a steer so we can raise them together?" Roger readily agreed to the idea. "My parents wouldn't let me have a horse," he added.

Wingert's son Jere helped Steve pick two steers from his father's herd for the project.

"We watched those steers for weeks," Steve said. "We looked for the best meat-type steer-- a tall, muscular steer. We tried to think what it would look like when it was older."

Finally, two steers were selected and the long months of caring for them began. The first set of steers, in 1986, were calm enough that Roger was able to help tend them. He visited them often and helped with the washing and brushing. The 1987 steers, however, were too wild for him to assist in their care.

"I was afraid he'd get hurt," Steve said.

Roger and Steve split the expenses and profits. "Every time Steve went for feed," their mother said, "Roger would fork out his share." Roger keeps all his personal financial records in Braille; Steve kept the project books on the steers.

Roger's steer placed fourth in the light heavyweight class at the club's round-up in October. It sold for $1.19 a pound at the sale the same evening.

At the club's awards banquet in November, the brothers jointly received the Leader's Award from club leader Leon Lebo.

"I've been proud of you for the dedication and support you have lent to your brother Roger so he could be a 4-H beef member while you were," Lebo said to Steve in presenting his award. "You can accept this award with great pride."

Richard and Janet Jones with their sons Steve and Roger recall the events leading up to Roger's blindness.

Roger types on the Braille-N-Print given to him by a local Lion's Club. The machine is a regular Braille typewriter connected to a computer that translates the dots Roger types into printed words.

Steve is a loyal older brother who Roger credits for helping make his agriculture dream come true.

To Roger, Lebo said, "I present this award to you with a great deal of love and respect. You've been a delight to have as a 4-H Beef member."

A senior at James Buchanan High School, Steve is planning to attend Penn State next year to major in agribusiness. His career goals include managing a farm or feed company.

Roger doubts he will be able to do another 4-H project next year because of Steve's absence, but has not entirely ruled out the possibility. "Who knows yet?" he said. "If someone would ask me to do something, I'd do it."

Even if Roger can't do another 4-H project, he can still keep busy in his garden. The Jones's patio contains raised, dirt-filled boxes made from railroad ties. In these, Roger planted cabbage, peppers, cauliflower, broccoli and tomatoes last spring. He can pick the peppers and cabbages himself, "but its a little hard for him to tell ripeness on the tomatoes," Janet said. Roger has to have some assistance with weeding chores, but the family hopes that eventually he will be able to distinguish the weeds from the plants by touch.

The idea for the garden came from a local blind minister who showed the Jones his raised gardens and irrigation set-up. When the minister moved from the area, they purchased his irrigation outfit.

Although the family is very close-knit and supportive of each other, "it's a lonely life, a confining life," according to Janet. "Friends don't know how to treat you. Everyone leads such an active life."

To help counter that loneliness, the Jones belong to a local support group for the families of blind children. They have been to the YMCA to swim, had a demonstration by the 4-H Seeing Eye Club and hosted a blind comedian and his guide dog. Guide dog are not given to anyone under 18. Roger is thinking about getting one someday, but has not definitely made up his mind yet. His balance will be a factor in his decision, as good balance is required to control the dog.

The Joneses are supportive of Roger's decisions and are encouraging but realistic about his future plans.

"He told me once he wanted to be a truck driver, but that's no more, right Rog?" his father asked.

"Right," Roger agreed in his soft voice. His dream for his future is to be able to run a computerized farm, where all milking and feeding chores could be done by computer hook-up.

Roger has already had some experience with computers. A local Lion's Club gave Roger a Braille-N-Print, which is a computer and printer that translates Roger's typed Braille into printed words. His regular Braille typewriter sits on the Braille-N-Print. As Roger types the Braille symbols, he can feel the raised dots to review that he was written; at the touch of a button, his words are printed out in regular letters for his parents and teachers to check.

The Joneses are an upbeat family despite Roger's handicap. They work together; their love for each other is obvious. They help Roger when necessary but encourage him to be independent and to work to reach his potential.

He will reach that potential. He's too much of a fighter not to.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

For persons to come bursting into my kitchen, bearing the latest in personal injuries, is not at all unusual around here.

Sometimes they hobble there through the office, or ease in by the back door, or come running, dripping blood in their wake. Blessedly, most have been of the everday bump-bruise-abrasion style of wounds, patchable with Band-Aids, first-aid ointment, peroxide, yards of gauze and an assorted collection of adhesive tapes we've accumulated over the years.

Thus, when the farmer appeared beside the kitchen sink recently, blood oozing from his face in two spots, his clothing manure-ornamented, I barely blinked.

My usual comment - "Looks like that could use a stitch" - got the usual response. Ignored. On to the next issue.

"What happened?"

Seems a near-yearling heifer that had just had her feet trimmed hadn't been too pleased with the attention. While being led through the dairy barn toward the heifer pens, the "leadership" role changed.

She took off running. He refused to let go of her halter, eventually being dragged, face-first, over the square-edged, steel grates covering the manure gutter. The square edges had nicely sliced two small gashes in his face, while neatly cleaning off that section of gutter. Luckily, during the belly-down slide, his forehead hadn't connected with one of the angled edges of the concrete stalls.

Earlier, I'd helped move that heifer down for her toenail trim. She'd thrown a super tantrum against being moved. Anywhere.

Then I remembered something. And it made perfectly good sense.

"You realize," I reminded the farmer, "that her name's 'angel'."

Over the years, we've tried to name our animals sensible-sounding names that don't look too outrageous on show signs or in advertising. A bunch of 'em have backfired. The label "Angel" for a heifer possessed with such devilish, ornery characteristics is but the latest in a string of mis-naming.

"Best" immediately comes to mind. A heifer just recently fresh and milking her first lactation, Best is anything but. Of only moderate size and mediocre appearance, her back droops, her udder is nothing to brag about, and she manages to maintain one of the messiest stalls in the barn.

Of similar disappointment was the calf once optimistically labeled "Beautiful." Beautiful turned out similar to "Best." Or maybe a bit worse, as I recall. (Friends once raised sisters named Best and Beautiful and they developed into two of the Holstein breed's outstanding individuals.)

And, then there was "Peace." Who would have more appropriately been named "War?" It would have fitted her temperament far better. She'd have gotten along great with "Angel."

But, one of our greatest disappointments turned out to be "Hopeful." Her pedigree was pretty fair, from a gentle, high-producing, well-conformed dam and popular sire. From the day she was born, Hopeful was a sweetheart, tame and loveable, and displayed some showring potential.

Then, one day when she was about four-months-old, Hopeful began holding her head at a strange sideways angle and became listless. Our vet's diagnosis was not promising. Hopeful died a few days later at the University of Philadelphia's New Bolton Center for large animal care with a brain tumor.

Based on several years' experience with such disappointments, our calf naming is about to undergo a drastic change. We'll try the Seven Dwarfs approach.

Names like Snoopy and Grumpy. Dopey, Dumpy and Sneezy. Yuccky. Ugly, Looser, Goofy, and Forget It.

Worst that can happen is that they'll manage to live up to their names.

Marks Wins Dairy Cookoff

HARRISBURG — A grandmother from Schecksville, Lehigh County, won Pennsylvania's first low fat, low calorie dairy cookoff Monday with a tasty "Winter's Main Dish Bisque" that took just 15 minutes to prepare. Mrs. Arlene Marks kept calories down with 2% milk, low fat yogurt, minced cooked turkey and pumpkin.

According to a Penn State computer analysis, each serving contained 394 calories and 99.5 milligrams cholesterol.

Seven gourmet cooks competed for the $1,000 grand prize at the Pennsylvania Academy of Culinary Arts in Camp Hill.

Mrs. Debbie Yandric of Middletown, Dauphin County, took second place and $100 with "Seafood-Stuffed Golden Nugget Squash." Third place and $50 went to Gloria T. Bove, Bethlehem, Lehigh County, for an Italian-styled "Turkey Pop-Over Pizza".

Runners-up were Marlene McCall, Baden, Beaver County, with "Rolled Stuffed Sole"; Katherine S. Wilson, Harrisburg, Dauphin County, for her "Potato-Tomato Tart"; Lissy L. Weirich, Carlisle, Cumberland County, with "Curried Chicken Stir-Fry with Apples and Yogurt"; and Sally Pietrandrea, Mifflinburg, Union County, for her "Ring of Plenty". Each received $25.

Only main dish recipes were considered in the 1988 statewide dairy recipe contest. They averaged 335 calories and 97.4 mg. cholesterol per serving.

Judges were Charles H. Gipe, Jr., a professional chef who heds the food services curriculum of the Dauphin County Technical School, and extension home economists Nancy Covert, Jefferson County, Beth Whitman, Northampton/Lehigh Counties, and Mary Melhorn, Cumberland County.

Recipes were scored on effective use of low-fat dairy products, taste and visual appeal, originality and creativity, ease of preparation and nutritional quality. A complete scorecard of the nutritional quality of each recipe was prepared by the Penn State Nutrition Center.

The statewide dairy recipe contest was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, Penn State Cooperative Extension and Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

The trend-setting Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program also launched a 2% White Lite milk campaign in 1987, and is actively promoting low-fat milk shakes for school lunch programs and non-alcoholic party drinks made with dairy products. The program is financed by over 4,000 state dairymen.

Mushrooms For Every Occasion

The best restaurants and the finest gourmets use mushrooms to add excitement to meals. The demand for this delicate, succulent vegetable is mushrooming in popularity. More and more people are discovering the incomparable taste and the versatility mushrooms offer when used as the main course or as a complement to almost any dish.

Mushrooms can be eaten raw, sauted, steamed, breaded, stuffed, broiled and pickled. They are used in salads, breads, soup, sauces, omelets, pizza, stuffings, casseroles, meat toppings and more.

Mushrooms are a boon to healthy diets. One cup of mushrooms contains only 20 calories and provides more that one-tenth of the daily recommended allowance of iron for an adult. Ounce for ounce mushrooms contain more potassium than orange juice or bananas. Fresh mushrooms are 99 percent fat-free, low in sodium and have no cholesterol. This important vegetable contributes fiber, vitamin D, B complex vitamins, plus phosphorous and trace minerals. If you are not convinced of the value of adding mushrooms to your menu, try the following recipes for that convincing taste appeal.

Featured Recipe

Our featured recipe comes from Eva Foster of Westtown. Mushrooms for Brunch won first prize, a blue ribbon and $300 in the 1986 Mushroom Cook-Off held at the Unionville Fair in Chester County.

Try it. It's sure to be a real winner for you just like it was for Eva Foster.

Mushrooms For Brunch

(Serves 4)
½ cup mushrooms, sliced
½ cup Swiss cheese, julienne
½ cup Colby cheese, grated
Blue Cheese, crumbled
½ cup Virginia ham, julienne
¼ cup green pepper, diced (hot peppers may be substituted)
1 medium-size onion, chopped
⅛ cup butter
4 large croissants

Melt butter in large skillet. Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Slice croissants lengthwise and lay cut side down in skillet for one minute, then remove from pan.

Saute chopped onion and pepper in skillet until onion is almost transparent. More butter may be added if necessary. Add sliced mushrooms and cook for another minute on low heat.

Then add ham and Swiss cheese and cook for another minute, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat and sprinkle mixture with Colby cheese.

Top with blue cheese to taste. Spread mixture on croissant halves.

Place in oven at 325 degrees for 9-11 minutes. Frozen croissants may be used. Wheat and honey croissants are e specially good.

Variation: Spread mixture on rice cakes instead croissants and microwave on "high" for 30 seconds.

Either version of this recipe can be served at brunch, as a light lunch, as a snack or as hors d'oeuvres.

ANSWER - Marla Stauffer, Ephrata, requested a recipe for making angel food cake in the microwave. Thanks Barb Downey, Street, Md., for sharing information that was gleaned from reading many cook books. She said, "Due to the short baking time and the absence of the dry heat in a conventional oven, angel food, chiffon and other cakes leavened entirely with egg whites will not bake with good results in a microwave oven."

ANSWER - Mrs. G. Slocum, Towanda, requests a recipe for jelly filled doughnuts.

Jelly Doughnuts

Makes about 50

1 cup warm milk
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
⅓ cup margarine
¼ cup warm water
1 package dry yeast
3 eggs, at room temperature
5½ to 6½ cups all-purpose flour
Peanut oil
Jelly
Granulated, confectioner's or cinnamon sugar

Combine warm milk, sugar, salt and margarine. Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add milk mixture, eggs and 3 cups flour, beat until smooth. Add additional flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Divide dough into 3 equal pieces. Roll each piece into a circle, ¼ -inch thick. Cut into 3-inch rounds. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover; let rise in warm place free from draft until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Fry in deep hot (375 degrees) peanut oil until brown, turning once. Drain on paper towels.

When cool, cut small hole in doughnut side and insert jelly in center. Dip doughnuts in granulated, confectioner's or cinnamon sugar. Patricia Potter Stevens

ANSWER - Mrs. Wm. J. Livingston, Dover, requested a recipe for caramel cake that has a chocolate custard type of filling and icing made with brown sugar and butter. Thanks L. Z. of Millmont for sharing a your recipe.

Caramel Cake

Cream together:
2 cups brown sugar
½ cup shortening
Add:
2 eggs, unbeaten
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla

Place 1 teaspoon cocoa in a cup. Add 2 teaspoons hot water. Fill the cup with sour milk, then add 1 teaspoon soda. Stir mixture until cocoa is well-dissoved. The cup will run over so be sure to hold it over the mixing bowl while stirring. When cocoa is dissoved, pour in with other ingredients and mix. Bake in 350 degree oven.

Creamy Caramel Frosting

Melt 4 tablespoons margarine in saucepan. Blend in 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt. Cook over low heat stirring constantly for 2 minutes. Stir in ¼ cup whole milk; continue stirring until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat; blend in about 2½ cups powdered sugar. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla. Thin with a small amount of canned milk if necessary.

QUESTION - Fay Werner, Tivoli, N.Y., requested recipes for creamy fruit cheesecakes. Thanks L.Z. from Millmont for the following recipe.

Simple Cherry Cheese Cake

1 graham cracker crust
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 can cherry or blueberry pie filling
1 large container non-dairy topping
2½ cups powdered sugar

Blend cream cheese and sugar together. After it is blended, add non-dairy topping and beat until fluffy. Spoon into pie crust and cover with pie filling.

ANSWER - A subscriber requested a recipe for frankfurters. Thanks Mrs. Aaron Hoover, Ephrata, and several others who mailed recipes.

Frankfurters

20 pounds of beef
10 pounds fat pork
4 pounds water
½ or ¾ pounds salt
3 ounces black pepper
1½ ounces sage, mace or nutmeg finely ground
garlic or onions if desired

Mix the salt, pepper and other seasonings together. Thoroughly mix with the cut meat and run through a meat grinder (use the fine plate). Grind the mixture 2 or 3 times to make sure the seasoning is evenly distributed and that the meat is ground very fine. Add water and mix thoroughly to make a pliable mass. Stuff into sheep or hog casing, depending on whether you want fat or thin franks. After the sausage is stuffed into the casings by means of the thumb and forefinger, press the casing together at about 4-inch intervals. Twist the first link 2 or 3 times. The next link made should be twisted in the opposite direction to keep the casing from unwinding. Hang the twisted links in the smokehouse and smoke for about 2 hours at a temperature that does not exceed 125 degrees or until they are a rich brown color. Cook in water to 155 degrees until they float. If the water is hotter the casings may burst. The time required for cooking depends upon the thickness of the franks. After cooking, rinse them in hot water, plunge them into cold water and hang in a cool place. Franks should be used soon after they are made. If they are kept longer, they should be canned or frozen.

German Franks

5 pounds veal, without bones
5 pounds pork, no fat
8 pounds lard
13 grams of salt per pound of meat
3 grams pepper per pound of meat
½ teaspoon nutmeg or more per pound meat used

Finely grind all meat together with lard and seasonings. Mix well after the grinding

Put into clean intestines and make 6-inch pieces. Prick with fork and refrigerate.

ANSWER - Marilyn F. Baumert, Herndon, requests a recipe for vanilla and peanut butter fudge. Thanks L. Z. from Millmont for sharing one.

Snowy Fudge

1½ cup peanut butter
2 cups sugar
⅔ cup milk
1 cup marshmallow cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cook sugar and milk to 234 degrees or until syrup forms a soft ball which flattens when removed from water. Add other ingredients. Mix well. Pour into buttered 8x6x2-inch pan and refrigerate.

The Great Grapefruit

Grapefruit offers year-round eating enjoyment. Since it is in plentiful supply at this time of year, now is a good time to give your family a taste treat. Grapefruit is coming to tables these days in colors ranging from white to rosy red. Grapefruit can add magic to your meals, color to your table, a lot of zing to faltering winter appetites, and is easy on your food budget.

Whether you buy them by the bag, box or one at a time, you get lots of low in calories and high in nutrition for your money. Grapefruit is a great source of Vitamin C. One-half of a large grapefruit (5 inches in diameter) supplies more than one-half of the recommended daily allowance of Vitamin C for the average adult. It contains only 68 calories. If you prefer the pink or red varieties, you get an added bonus of Vitamin A not present in the white varieties.

When buying grapefruit, look for firm and heavy fruit. The heavier the grapefruit, the more juice there will be inside. Select thin-skinned fruit that is free of soft spots. The thin skin usually indicates a juicier fruit. Some grapefruit have russet patches which many people believe indicate the best flavor.

Avoid grapefruit that are soft of that have discolored areas on the peel at the stem end of the fruit. Also avoid fruit that have lost their bright color or that have a soft peel that breaks easily with finger pressure. These are all symptoms of decay and will affect the flavor of the fruit.

You are the best judge of overall freshness and quality at the produce counter. Fresh fruit is perishable, so buy only as much as you need. Remember, if you throw it away, it is not a bargain.

Winter Menu Mainstay

The perfect accompaniment to main dishes in hearty, winter meals is the potato. Rich in Vitamin C and fiber, and only 100 calories for a medium-sized one, it is an excellent nutritional choice.

If you are planning to have baked potatoes, choose the large mealy ones and simply bake them in a 350 degree oven for an hour and a half, depending on size. Do not make the mistake of baking them in aluminum foil; that will cause the potatoes to steam rather than bake and yield a wilted crust instead of a delicious crisp one. Depending on how many calories your conscience will allow you, you can add cottage cheese, yogurt, or sour cream. Also, be sure to eat the skin as that is where most of the vitamins and fiber are located.

If you are watching your calorie intake, but like the crispness of French fries, try this substitute. Slice baking potatoes into 2 inch strips and place them on a greased cookie sheet in a single layer; bake for 45 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Toss with your favorite seasonings and a little melted butter or margarine. Each slice will develop a crisp crust and the calorie count is much less than that of French fries.

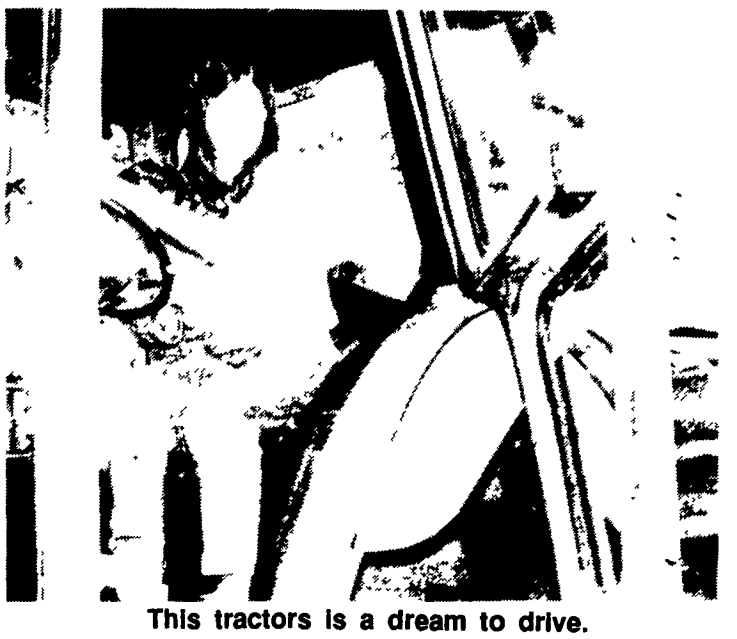
Kid's Korner

A Kid's View Of The Farm Show

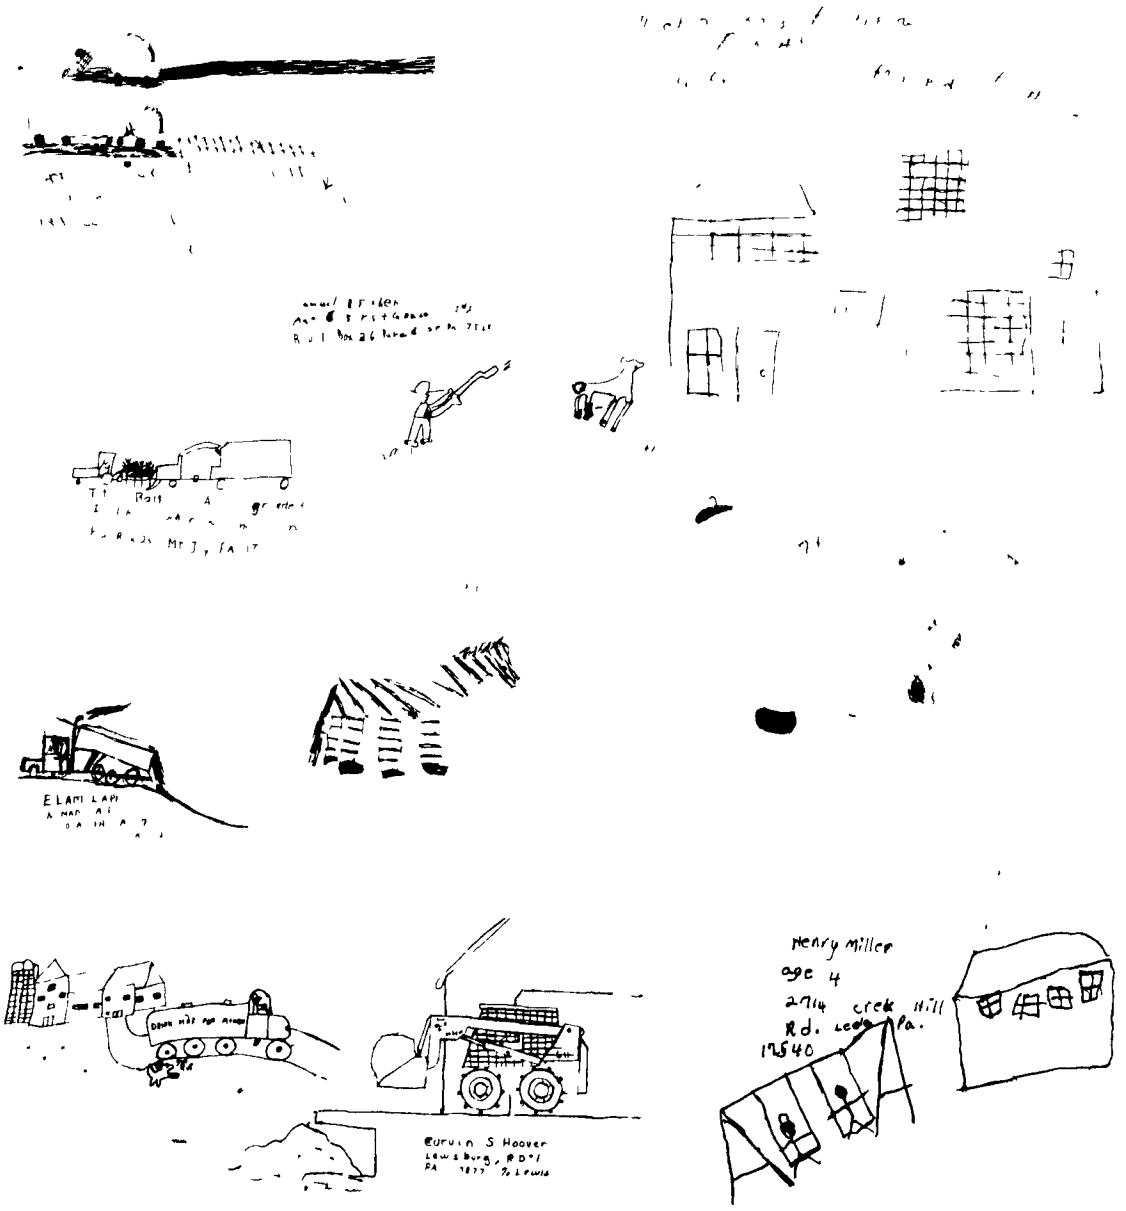
A hair cut is a good idea for sheep who don't like their wool combed.

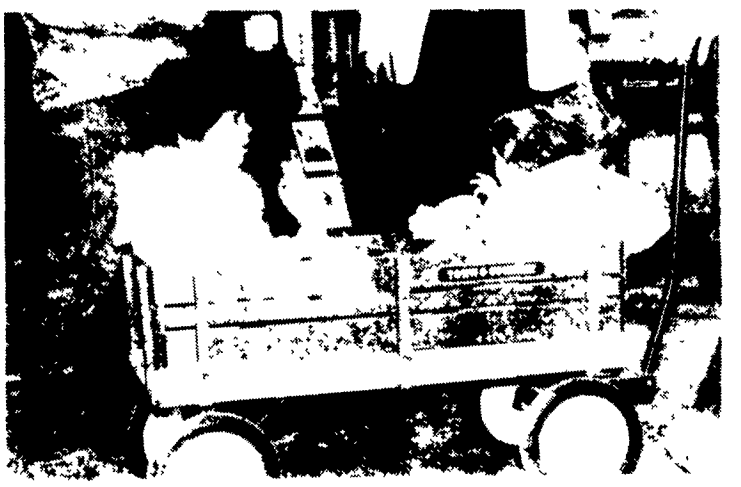


This tractors is a dream to drive.

Nothing like snuggling up to a newborn calf.

"He's almost as big as me! exclaimed this girl when she saw the goose.





There's more than one way to get around the Farm Show.

A rest stop is a good idea after a long walk through the Farm Show.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

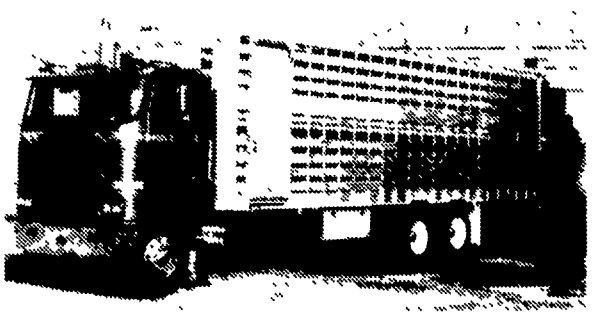
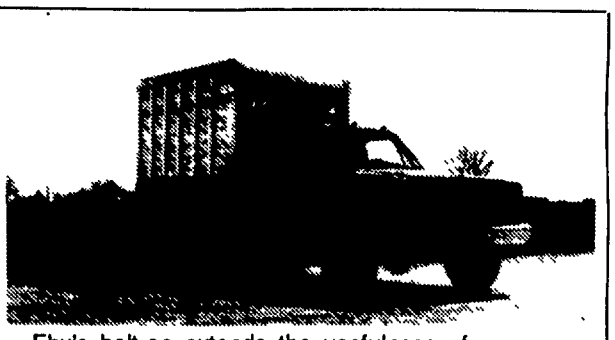
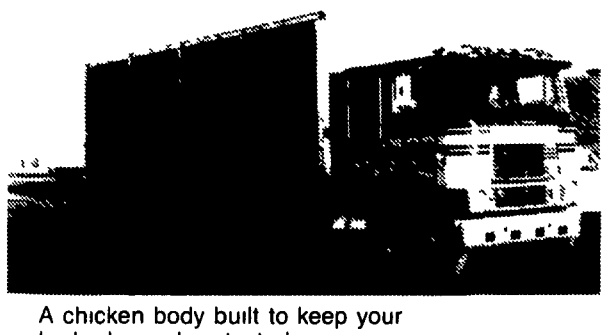
An Eby grain body is surprisingly affordable and built for the long haul



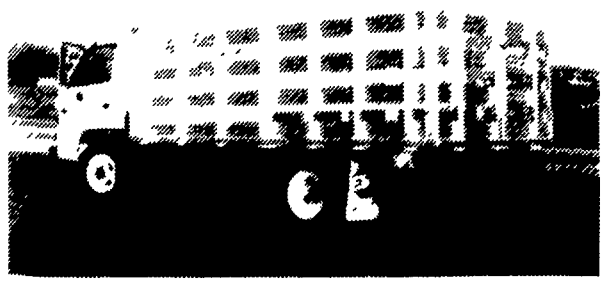
Reliable Eby livestock bodies are now aerodynamically designed



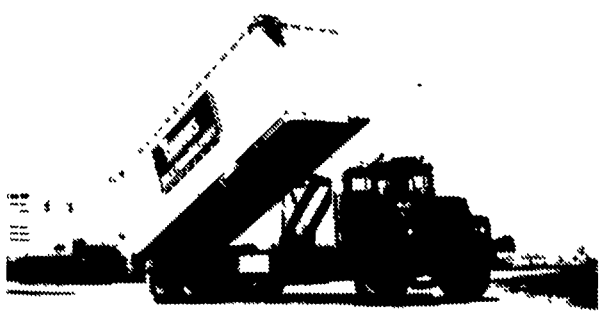
Eby's bolt-on extends the usefulness of your pickup for minimal investment.



A chicken body built to keep your birds dry and protected.



Eby stake body is the right choice for farm or commercial use



Consider an Eby bulk body for reliability and ease of use.

Aluminum Bodies for the Agri-Industry

Back in 1938, when Menno Eby Sr. began making wagons and cattle trucks, he was determined to give farmers strong, wooden truck bodies at a competitive price.

Some things change. Others stay the same.

Today, M. H. Eby, Inc. produces a wide variety of sturdy and reliable truck bodies for agri-business. Everything from livestock bodies through stake bodies to grain and bulk bodies. All at competitive prices.

But now every Eby body is all-aluminum. Consider some of the advantages you get over traditional wood and steel construction:

- As much as 50% lighter — allows for increased payloads.
- It will never rust through or rot.
- No need to paint.
- Overall maintenance costs are greatly reduced.
- Just an occasional power washing keeps aluminum bodies looking new for years.
- They have much better resale value.

What's more, you can always tell Eby what you want on your body. Everything we make is custom-built. A long list of options available for every body style allows you to design the body you need for your operation.

Give us a call, or write, to find out more about the lightweight alternative.

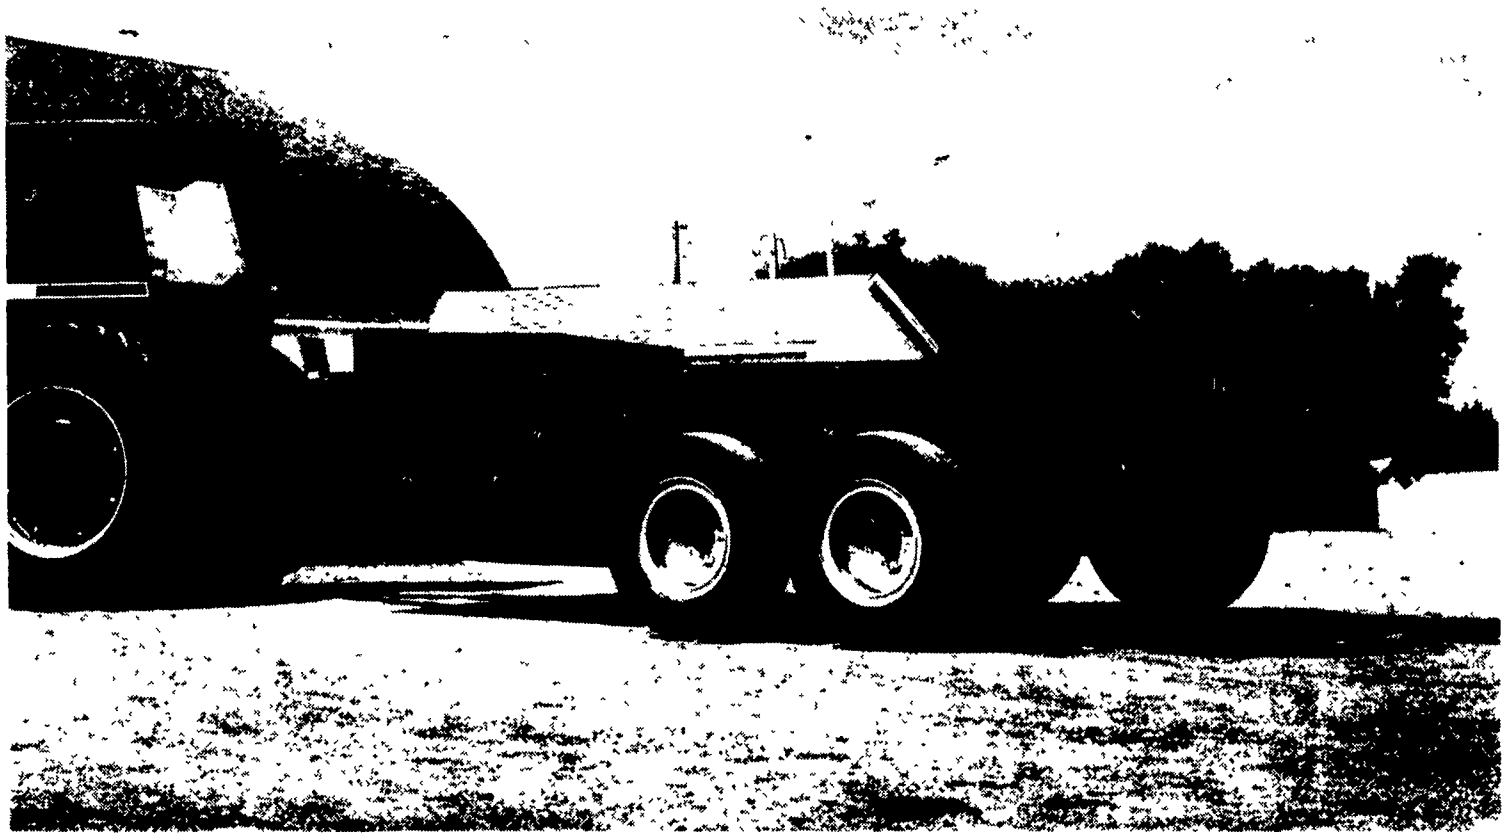
MANURE SPREADERS



Famous Bear Claw paddles shred and spread fast and even.

You'll appreciate the strength and performance of a Case IH 500 Series manure spreader whether you spread every day or just once or twice a week. Aggressive, single-beaters have rugged Bear Claw paddles that shred packed or frozen material, then spread it evenly for uniform distribution. Other features include steel sides and front endgate, ¾-inch (19 mm) treated plywood floor, a smooth-running worm-gear transmission, and heavy-duty T-bar apron chains for exceptional reliability.

575, 595 Spreaders
With these big-capacity spreaders, large-herd manure handling problems disappear in a hurry. Among the largest on the market, the 575 and 595 are equipped with double aprons and tandem wheels on bogie-type axles to help ease heavy loads over rough ground.

530, 540, 550, 560 Spreaders
These four single-axle models are just right for medium-sized livestock operations. All have a 2-speed apron drive. Upper beaters and hydraulic end-gates are options.

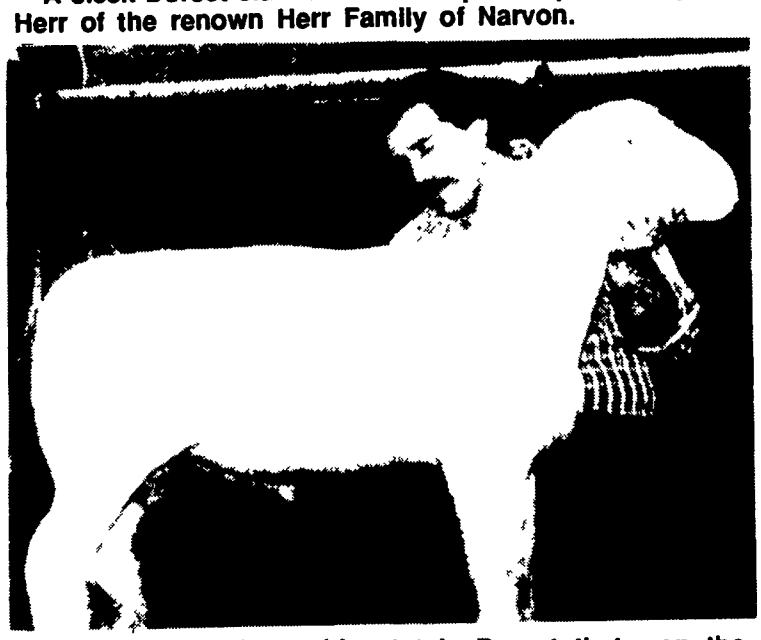
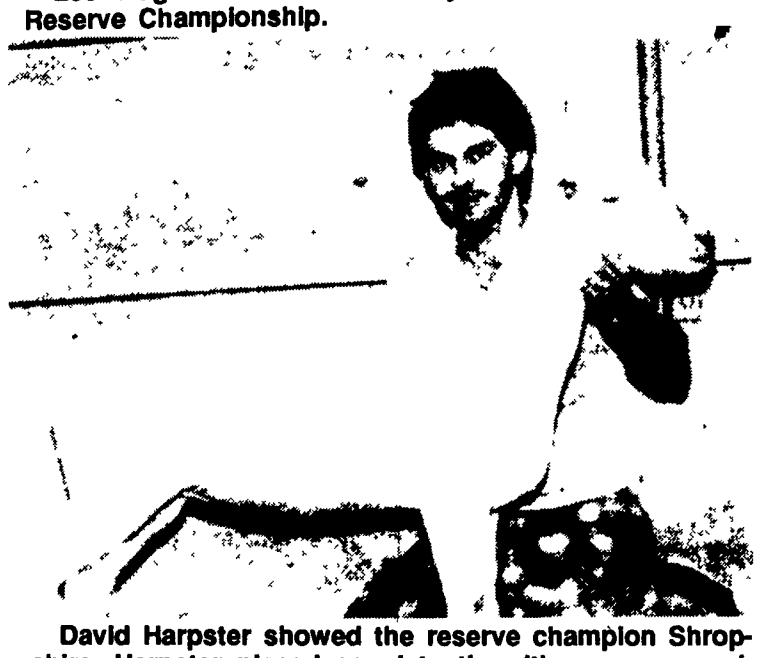
Pennsylvania's Finest Sheep Flock To Farm Show

A sleek Dorset claimed the championship for Margaret Herr of the renown Herr Family of Narvon.



Lee Wagner shows his stately Dorset that won the Reserve Championship.



David Harpster showed the reserve champion Shropshire. Harpster placed consistently with many second-place wins.

BY LISA RISSER
& LOU ANN GOOD

HARRISBURG — Hours of meticulous preparation paid off for exhibitors who showed their beautiful wooly animals at the Farm Show's open breeding competition on Sunday and Monday evening.

Judges Gale Cole of Palmyra, Illinois and Jim Elphic of Arlington, Wisconsin had their work cut out for them as they chose champions from among Pennsylvania's finest sheep.

Cheviot, Dorset, Hampshire, Shropshire, Southdown, and Suffolk breeds competed on Sunday, while the wool breeds, Corriedale, Merino, and Rambouillet, finished up on the following evening.

Cheviot

Donna MacCauley of Atglen (Chester) has been showing Cheviots since she was little, and this year she knew she was going to do well. She was right: her ewes captured champion and reserve champion titles. In addition, she won the Get Of Sire and Flock classes and was named the show's Premier Exhibitor.

In his first time showing at Farm Show, Robert Richards of Beavertown (Snyder) hit pay dirt: his spring ram lamb was named grand champion. Richards has a herd of 19 ewes, the bloodlines of which he has been improving by buying animals from Erdenheim Farms and at the National Cheviot Sale in Illinois.

The reserve champion ram lamb spot was captured by Kathy Weaver of Everett (Bedford), who has been exhibiting at Farm Show for the past eight years. Kathy who said she knew absolutely nothing about sheep when she started in the sheep business 12 years ago has built her flock to 60 head. She said it was a long, hard road and now that she has been successful for the last several years, she hates to get out of the business, but since she is getting married in April she plans to sell her sheep to her friend Candice Crawford who helped Kathy show this year.

Corriedale

Benjamin and Mary Bow and Family swept the ram titles, having both the champion and reserve champion. The spring ram is their first champion at Farm Show, where they've been exhibiting for 10 years. The ram also won first place at the 1987 National Corriedale Show and Sale. The Bows are from Annville and raise Suffolk in addition to Corriedales.

A resident of Bedford County, Kathy Weaver showed a spring ewe lamb that received the title of grand champion. Weaver, who raises Cheviots and Montadales as well, had last year's champion ram.

Melanie Sue Bow's spring lamb took reserve champion honors.

Dorset

Winning top honors at a show is not unusual for the Herr family of Narvon (Lancaster), but they were very glad to have the top market lamb and the champion ram lamb at Farm Show. They also won the Get Of Sire and Flock classes. The Herrs had the reserve champion Dorset at KILE and their ram's sire was a Squire's ram from B & B Livestock in Danville, Ohio and its dam was the champion at Farm Show four years earlier.

Although it was the youngest in its class, the spring ram lamb shown by Lee and Louise Wagner of Easton (Northampton) was named reserve grand champion. The Wagners have been exhibiting for 30 years and have a flock of 50 Dorsets.

Alicia Strasbaugh of York showed the champion ewe lamb. She also was named Premier Exhibitor and Breeder.

Shana, the spring ewe lamb shown by K&S Sheep Construction of Lancaster, nabbed the reserve champion slot in the Dorset competition. K&S Sheep Construction, owned by Greg Snyder and Jim Kendall, have a small flock of four animals, but intend to keep growing. Snyder said Shana which is Pennsylvania Dutch for pretty was sired by a Kuzemchax ram and a Rader ewe. The sheep was shown by Snyder's daughter Jennifer, 8. The win was

The Cheviot reserve championship went to one of Kathy Weaver's flock. After 12 years of raising sheep, Kathy, left, is selling most of her flock to Candice Crawford, right.

The champion ewes in the Cheviot division belong to Donna MacCauley, right. Donna said she knew she would do good in this year's show.

Pennsylvania's Finest Sheep

York countian Paul Leader displays his reseve champion Suffolk.

During her 12 years of showing sheep, Kathy Weaver, left, has had many champions including this Corriedale ewe. Helping her is Candace Crawford.

the first for Jennifer who plans on saving the prize money for college at Penn State.

Hampshires

Championship ram and ewe honors went to Glenn Musselman of Lancaster as did the title of Premier Exhibitor. This is the second year that he's shown the champions, and he's only been exhibiting for two years. Last year's champions were the dam and sire of this year's winners.

Tim and Sarah Fleener of Robesonia (Lebanon) have been showing sheep for about 20 years and have never gone without a champion or reserve. This year is no exception as their spring ram was judged reserve champion. The couple's farm is a family operation with 80 Hampshire ewes and 20 commercial sheep. This year's reserve was sired by a former Farm Show champion in their flock.

This year's reserve ewe title went to a lamb shown by Wey Farms of Mertztown (Berks). The farm received the Premier Breeder and the Exhibitor award. The ewe was acquired this summer in an attempt to improve the flock's bloodlines.

Merino

It may have been 19-year-old Robert B. McCrumb III's first time showing Merinos at Farm Show, but he soon proved he was no novice. His sheep won both champion and reserve champion ram lamb titles, and one of his ewes walked away with reserve champion honors. McCrumb's been showing sheep for 16 years.

The home-bred spring ewe that Barbara Falvey of Bedford showed won the grand champion spot in the Merino show. Falvey, 18, has been involved in 4-H for many years and exhibited many champions during that time. The champion ewe's dam was champion at Farm Show in 1985.

Rambouillet

Seven-year-old Billy George Leib of Mechanicsburg (Dauphin) has been exhibiting champion sheep for almost as long as he's been around. In this year's show, he showed the champion ram and ewe as well as the reserve champion ewe. He also won the Breeder's Young Flock, Pen of Lambs, Get Of Sire, and Flock classes and the Premier Exhibitor award. The sire of all three of his winners was reserve champion at the Eastern States Exposition.

The reserve champion ram title was captured by a ram owned by Ben Lazarus of Germansville. Lazarus' sheep placed well throughout the competition, and he won the Premier Breeder award.

Shropshire

Both ewe and ram champion honors went to Wey Farms as did the Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor awards. Since 1979, Wey Farms has been building up its flock that includes 80 head in the Hampshire and the Shropshire breeds. Part of the farm's success lies in using rams that produce fast gain and sound animal, according to the manager.

The spring ram lamb that David Harpster of Boalsburg (Centre) showed was judged reserve champion of the show. Harpster placed consistently with many second-place wins.

Arlissa Snavely's yearling ewe, with its clean, neat lines took reserve champion honors.

Southdown

In a repeat performance, Steve Kwisnek of Clarksburg (Indiana) swept the top spots in the Southdown show to have both the champion and reserve champion rams as well as the champion ewe.

In a repeat performance Steve Kwisnet of Scenic View Farm swept top spots in the Southdown show. Kwisnet displays his Southdown ram while the state's Lamb and Wool queen, Jennifer Mawhinney holds his awards.

Barb Falvey exhibited the grand champion Merino ewe.

Nineteen-year-old Robert B. McCrumb III showed the grand champion ram in this, his first year of exhibiting Merinos at Farm Show.

Billy George Leib, right, with the help of his father, Bob, showed the champion ram ewe.

This is a feat he first performed last year. Kwisnek, owner of Scenic View Farm, has a flock of 100 Southdowns that usually do well at shows. Like most of the prize winning flock, this year's champions were homebred from last year's champion ram and lamb. Kwisnek won the Premier Exhibitor and Premier Breeder awards.

Nine-year-old Matt Trostle of Red Lion (York) showed the home-bred, spring ewe lamb that was named reserve grand champion. His family's farm, owned by

Pennsylvania's Finest

Ronald and Yvonne Trostle, have a flock of 60 Southdowns and Hampshires. Matt commented, "I like it when they get tame and are not all wild."

Suffolk

The offspring of champions, the spring ram shown by the William MacCauley family of Atglen (Chester) was judged grand champion. MacCauley, who has been showing sheep ever since he could hold one, has 45 Suffolk ewes.

Pine Hill Farms of Newville (Cumberland) walked away with the home-bred grand champion ewe and the reserve champion ram. Their wins included the Premier Breeder and Exhibitor awards. "We've done considerably well in the last six to seven years," said John Conway, who owns the farm with wife Diane. "Today makes long nights in the barn worthwhile," he added.

The reserve champion Suffolk ewe was exhibited by Paul Leader of York, who has been exhibiting since 1955. Leader's sheep have won some title every year. This year's winner, which also placed first in five fairs this past summer, was bought and bred from McConnells.

Carcass Lamb Champions

HARRISBURG — The first sheep competition of the 1988 Pennsylvania Farm Show had a familiar ending. Twenty-year-old Margaret Herr of R.D. 2 Narvon, LANCASTER COUNTY walked away with the champion on-foot carcass lamb. Herr, who showed last years champion lightweight on-foot carcass lamb, bested a field of 36 lambs with her champion heavyweight, a Hampshire/Suffolk crossbreed.

As usual, the Herr Family of Narvon won top honors in the carcass competition just like they have for the past 15 years. Daughter Margaret Herr showed the champion Dorset ram.

Lee Hayes, R.D. 1 Tyrone, BLAIR COUNTY, was named Reserve Champion of the show by Judge William Kuecker with his second place heavyweight lamb.

The champion lightweight on-foot carcass lamb was exhibited by Ronald Fleck of R.D. Centre Hall, CENTRE COUNTY. The middleweight champion was also a Centre County lamb that was shown by Douglas Martz of Pleasant Gap.

The 36 lambs shown in the on-foot carcass lamb competition on Saturday evening will be slaughtered this week and then re-judged on the rail. Awards for the on-rail carcass champions will be awarded on Friday, at the Sale of Champions, where the top five carcasses will be auctioned to the public.

Exhibits Cover Variety of Topics

HARRISBURG — Topics such as pesticide safety, chain saw safety, aquaculture and recycling waste were featured in the Farm Show's winning high school vocational-agricultural exhibits.

Tri-Valley High School from SCHUYLKILL COUNTY stepped up from last year's second-place finish to take first place honors with an exhibit titled "If It Kills Weeds, It Can Kill You." The exhibit dealt with pesticide safety and displayed protective clothing and gear and advice on how to use pesticides safely.

Placing second with their exhibit, "Chain Saw Safety," was Line Mountain High School of NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY. Their realistic display features safety gear such as hard hats, goggles, and steel tip shoes to wear while working with a chain saw.

Kutztown Area School District in BERKS COUNTY won third place and their display titled, "Thieves Could Pick Your Pocket." The students backed up a variety of computer components and lighting with panels presenting ideas that could make your farm or equipment less susceptible to theft.

Students from Tulpehocken High School in BERKS COUNTY placed fourth with their exhibit "Pesticide Safety." It displayed protective gear and information on various levels of toxicity.

Cedar Crest High School from LEBANON COUNTY won fifth place with an exhibit titled "What's Eating Your Profits?" The panels displayed various pests that affect corn in the months from June to July and from July to August.

Also honored were Lower Dauphin High School, placing sixth with the display, "Splash into Agriculture -- the cultivation and production of food in water"; Penns Valley, seventh with "Good Hay -- Bad Hay"; Selinsgrove Area High School, eighth with "Please Don't Spoil the Soil"; and, placing ninth, Middleburg Area High School with "Safety -- A Matter of Life or Death."

Farm Show's Bred-Gilt Competition Breeds Winners

The champion Berkshire gilt was exhibited by Todd Bennecoff of Kutztown (Lehigh).

The January gilt shown by James Parlett of Airville (York) was named grand champion Chester White.

BY LISA RISSER

HARRISBURG — The top swine producers in the state gathered on Saturday morning to show their best bred gilts. Exhibitors paraded nearly 200 hogs representing eight breeds before Judge LaVern Weller of Dwight, Ill.

One of the only swine competitions in the nation to exhibit only bred gilts, the show was followed by sales of entries on Monday and Tuesday.

Berkshire

Twenty-year-old Todd Bennecoff of Kutztown did himself one better this year by taking champion honors in this show. His gilt, champion at the 1987 New York State Fair, is bred to a son out of last year's champion at Farm Show.

Reserve champion went to a gilt shown by Dennis L. Grumbine of Myerstown. Grumbine, along with sons Daryl, 16, and Darren, 14, has shown a champion or reserve in every bred-gilt competition for the past 16 years.

Chester White

James Parlett of Airville added another championship to his collection with a Chester White bred gilt that the judge called clean-topped and long-sided with good muscle and skeletal structure. Part of a line of champions, the January gilt's littermate was second in her class and their sire produced the champion barrow and gilt at the Keystone Classic.

The reserve champion was shown by Scott Lazarus of Germansville, who also had the reserve at last year's Farm Show competition. Lazarus' February gilt is heavy-structured and long sided, according to Weller.

Duroc

The February gilt owned by Mahoning Creek Farms in Smicksburg took top honors in this show. Mahoning Creek Farms, owned by Clyde McConaughey and family, also showed this year's first-place March gilt and the top March and January gilts last year.

Weller said of the reserve shown by David Holloway of Glen Rock "She has a high-quality underline and tremendous bone structure. She also is nicely leveled up top."

Hampshire

Strawbridge & McCleary of Windsor took four of the top nine placings in the Hampshire classes. They also showed the champion, a January gilt. The farm has shown many champions at Farm Show during the past 30 years that they've been showing swine. Their grand-champion gilt has won several fairs this fall and is out of a dam and sire that have produced many champions.

Clayton Winebark's March gilt won its class and was named reserve champion. The heavy-structured gilt is deep ribbed and correctly muscled, according to Weller.

Landrace

Edward Bartley of Maple Hill Farm in Valencia showed the January gilt that was judged champion of the show. Bartley, in partnership with his daughter, June Arner, has been showing Landrace swine for 20 years. His last champion was in 1976. That gilt brought the highest price of any hog sold at Farm Show at the time.

At reserve was the January gilt exhibited by Barbara Mummert, owner of Tunnel Hill Farm in Seven Valleys. The York County exhibitor had the champion at last year's show. She has been showing Landrace at Farm Show since 1970.

Strawbridge & McCleary of Windsor (York) exhibited the champion Hampshire gilt.

Brandi, left, and Julie Mikesell of Marion Center (Indiana) showed a February Poland China gilt that captured grand champion honors. They also showed the reserve champion, a March gilt.

The neat, clean lines of James Parlett's February gilt helped it win the championship spot in the Spotted Swine show.

Poland China

Indiana County 4-H'ers Julie and Brandi Mikesell nabbed grand champion honors for the first time with their February gilt. The girls, who have been in 4-H for eight years, also had the reserve champion with their March gilt. The champion is a thick individual with a long stride, according to Weller.

"The March gilt is easy top in its class," he said. "She moves out free and easy. She is very correct in her underline."

Spotted Swine

James Parlett, who had the grand champion Chester White, took the top spot in this show as well. His February gilt, which Weller said was square in the rump area, neat, and clean lined, is the first Spotted Swine champion that Parlett has had since he started showing them six years ago. The gilt also is a full sister of the reserve champion at the Keystone Classic.

Reserve champion honors went to Joseph Gardner's February gilt. Gardener showed last year's grand champion Poland China.

Yorkshire

Competition was stiff as Weller chose the January gilt shown by Strawbridge & McCleary as grand champion. The farm also had the second-place February gilt, the third-place March gilt, and the gilts that took the top two spots in the January class.

Reserve championship was given to the March gilt shown by Leon L. Arnold of Lebanon.

Farm Women Convene At State Forum

BY LOU ANN GOOD

HARRISBURG — The 69th annual convention of the Society of Farm Women of Pennylvania in Harrisburg was filled with laughter, tears and business when members from 16 counties gathered at the state Forum on Monday.

Boyd E. Wolff, Secretary of Agriculture, congratulated the women for being the backbone of agricultural success. He told of difficult issues like pesticide use and the Chesapeake Bay problems that face the industry today, but affirmed the women that they would overcome the rough roads ahead.

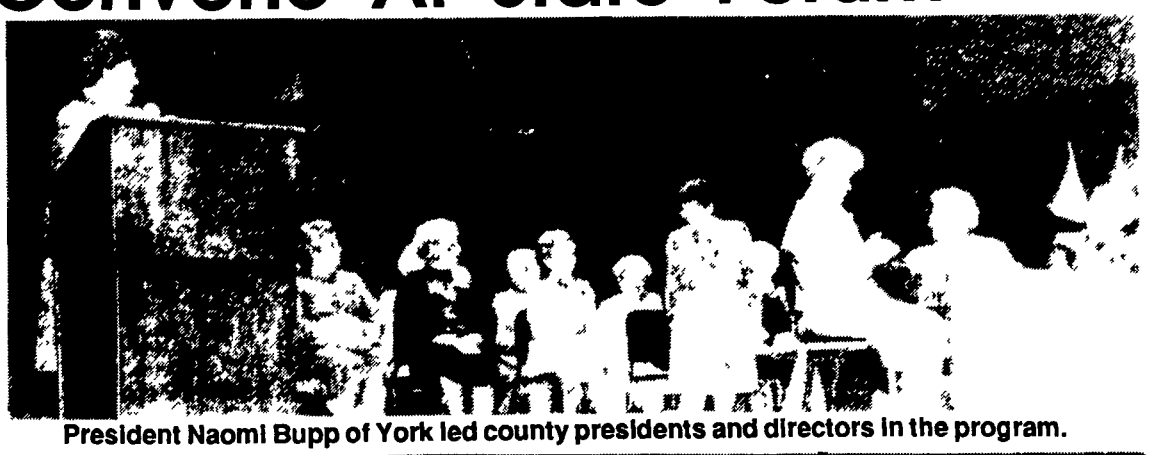
Scholarship Chairman Eleanor Rothenberger presented Kelly Miller of York County with a scholarship toward her studies at Drexel University in clothing design. Kelly, who grew up in a large farm family, shared her gratitude for the scholarship and for the opportunity of being a farm girl. "I wouldn't trade my experience for anything," she said. She told how growing up with clothing hand-me-downs had taught her creativity in using and remaking what she had.

Another scholarship recipient Sonja Miller of Dauphin County was unable to attend. Sonja is a student at Harrisburg Area Community College.

During the introduction of state officers and directors, many gave tidbits of advice like "Some men have their first dollar but the man who is really rich is the one who still has his best friend." Others gave helpful hints like Florence Vaitl, Lancaster County president, who said she irons pot pie to dry it.

"I'm a child of the King," sang Peggy Spiese of York.

As usual, the women held a memorial service in remembrance of society members who had died since the last state meeting. A candle was lighted and then snuffed out in remembrance of the 62 deceased members from the 16 counties represented. While members read a list of the deceased members, Peggy Spiese of York County sang, "I'm a child of the King."



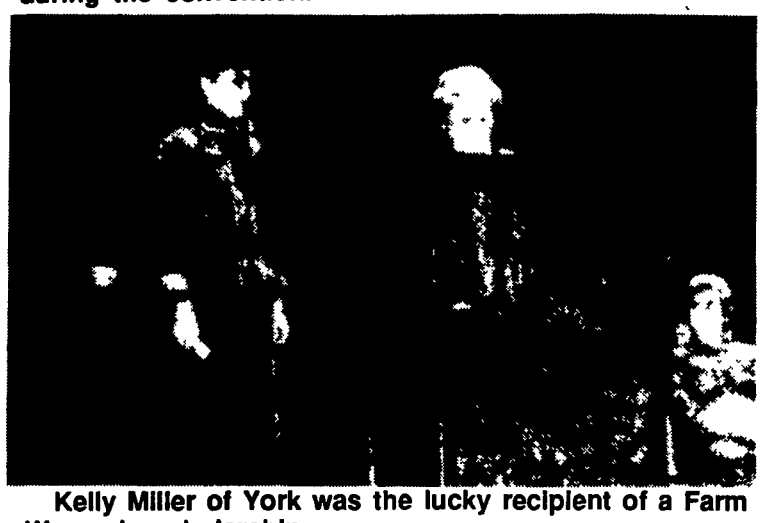
President Naomi Bupp of York led county presidents and directors in the program.

Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Rebecca Sonnen of Lebanon County reported on her promotional activities. She also gave the skit that she presents at schools. When asked by President Naomi Bupp why she is called a princess while other commodity girls are called queens, Becky replied, "Because the cow is the queen in the dairy industry."

Afternoon entertainment included Chuck Rhodes of Channel 27 Weather/News and "T For Two" by Liz and Don Trostle.

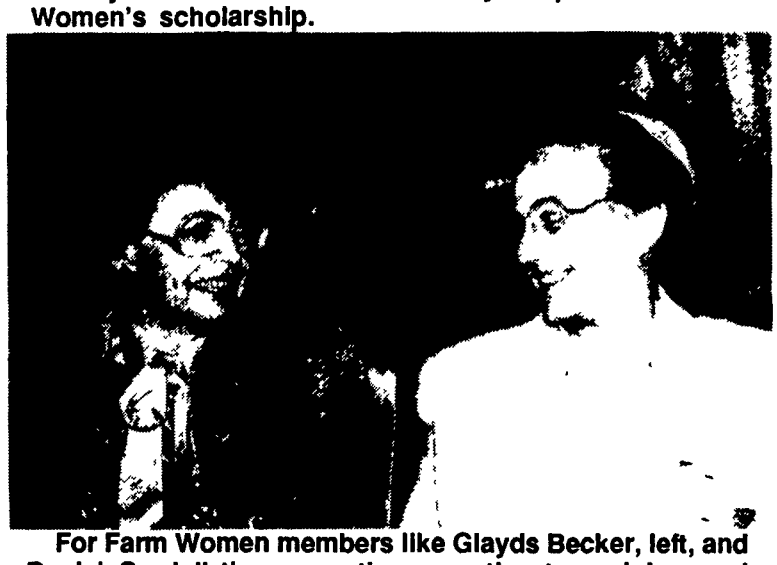
The annual convention banquet was held in the grand ballroom of the Penn Harris Motor Inn, Harrisburg. Pecks of Oberlin hosted a fashion show.

During the past year, 61 members of the group died. The Farm Women honored them by holding a memorial service during the convention.



Kelly Miller of York was the lucky recipient of a Farm Women's scholarship.

Marie Baughman installed newly elected state officers during the business meeting: From left, Edith Diehl, state president from Cumberland county; Arlene Witman of Lancaster, first vice president; Dorothy Strickler of Berks county, second vice president; and state directors Glayds Becker, Franklin county; Arlene Miller of York County; and Nancy Barmont of Fulton county.



For Farm Women members like Glayds Becker, left, and Beulah Cordell, the convention was a time to reminisce and renew acquaintances.

Farm Women Get Down To Business

HARRISBURG — The state Farm Show wasn't all entertainment and fun for farm women. On Tuesday, the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania got down to business by installing new officers and revising their by-laws.

The 243 attendees grappled with changing times as they decided to increase their dues to meet the demands of budget increases.

Newly elected officers include the following: Edith Diehl of Cumberland County, state president; Arlene Witman of Lancaster County state first vice president; Dorothy Strickler of Berks County, second vice president; and four state directors Isabella Warfield, Dauphin County; Gladys Becker, Franklin County; Arlene Miller, York County and Nancy Barmont of Fulton County.

Outgoing president Naomi Bupp told of the pleasure she received from serving her term as president of the organization.

Newly elected state president Edith Diehl of Cumberland county is ready to take on her new duties for the Society of Farm. Women of Pennsylvania.

Outgoing president Naomi Bupp opened presents from society members.

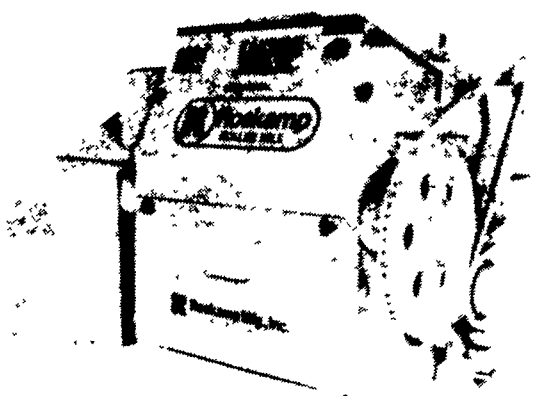
ROSKAMP STATIONARY CORN SILAGE ROLLER MILL



FOR DAIRY
Rolling silage fresh – just before feeding – increases milk production.

FOR BEEF
Less silage is required per pound of gain when silage is freshly rolled before feeding.

FOR HOGS
Freshly rolled silage, with all kernels cracked and all cobs crushed provides a highly palatable and more readily assimilated feed for sows.

DUAL PURPOSE
Hi-moisture or dry shelled corn can be metered into the Roskamp Silage Mill Hopper along with the silage for a uniformly mixed and digestible ration.

University tests have proven that 20% of high moisture whole corn passes through the animal's system undigested. This means evern fifth scoopful of expensive grain is left on your feedlot!

That's why it's money in the bank to freshly roll every bit of high moisture or dry corn just before feeding. Freshly rolled feed is the most palatable and digestible.

Dairy Research Update

FERMENTABLE FIBER

Is Critical To Development Of Super-Energy

"MAXI-TECH 32 F.F."

Dairymen know a higher level of energy maintains higher milk production. However, proper forage intake is critical, therefore the amount of grain must be limited. Use of high energy fat (250% more energy than grain) has been limited by the fat-fiber reaction in the rumen. Therefore, Dairy Cows Limiting Factor Continues To Be Energy.

MAXI-TECH 32 F.F. works in four new ways to Increase Your Cows Energy Digestion:

1. Purina Mills Technology Made It Possible to Create An Extreme Density Of Super-Energy Animal Fat In Maxi-Tech 32 F.F.
2. Maxi-Tech 32 F.F. Has Twice the Fiber Found in Average Supplements. This Fiber Allows More Fat To Be Consumed Without Creating A Fat-Fiber Imbalance.

Marie Steinmetz Rises To The Occasion

BY LOU ANN GOOD

KLEINFELTERSVILLE (Lebanon) — The new Lebanon County Farm Women's president, Marie Steinmetz, lives in a small town that boasts the longest single post office name in the United States. Kleinfeltersville was named after Marie's great-great grandfather who was deeded the family farm by William Penn in the early 1700's.

Marie is proud of the family farm, proud of her circuit-riding, evangelical great-great grandfather who founded the town and proud of Lebanon Farm Women members.

Marie said that the 396 members that make up the 21 groups in her county are a very cooperative group of ladies. She added, "Our group is not a gossip session like some groups tend to become. We're too busy for that."

Few are probably more active than their president Marie. Although retired from her former full-time job since 1983, Marie's schedule brims with volunteer work, church and community activities and her part-time career as a professional seamtress.

She shakes her head as she exclaims, "I don't know how I ever worked full time, I'm so busy. There's oodles to do." All in the same breath, she adds, "I can't see anyone retiring and twiddling their thumbs."

Twiddling thumbs is certainly not something Marie has ever done. Since age 5, Marie has been nimble with a needle. Through six decades she has supplemented the family income by carrying on a thriving dressmaking business. "I've never bought myself a dress," she said. "I've always made my own. I even sew most of my coats."

As a people person, Marie greets visitors with a happy smile and puts the kettle on for a cup of tea.

Angel food cakes are Marie's specialty.

She has exhibited her sewing projects in the state farm show since 1936 and has garnered ribbons galore. She has taught sewing classes for the Singer company and the YWCA in Lebanon. From ages 9 to 50, Marie was active in 4-H. Mostly, she served as a local sewing and cooking leader. She credits her sewing success to experience and courses taken through the extension services.

Marie refers to the government's accusation that extension services are teaching hobbies when they hold classes in sewing and cooking as appalling. "Both sewing and cooking are so basic. They are not hobbies. You can save so much money by cooking from scratch and sewing your own clothes."

Marie is adament when she says people can't get along without those skills. "Many people have money problems because they don't make the effort to do things from scratch."

She paused, then added in a rush, "I'll tell you what I think is happening—the government is listening too much to the unions." She points out that non-profit organizations' budgets are being cut and each person must do more or it does not get done.

Marie has never been one to shrink from responsibility. Her daughter jokingly refers to her mother as "the German Stoic" because Marie lives by the creed of "doing what has to be done to the best of my ability, learning to accept whatever comes along and realizing that other people are worse off than myself."

Marie admits there have been plenty of things she has done in life, not because she enjoyed them, but because they needed to be done. For example, after her husband's death in 1965, Marie quit a job she liked but could not survive on financially in order to work at a state hospital in the dietary and laundry departments. She admitted, "I liked the pay and the benefits, but not the job." Still, she's glad she did it. "It supported my daughter and me, and now I have a retirement pension," she said.

Marie describes herself as "a houselady, not an outdoor person." She adds, "I enjoy people. I need to do things with people."

For many years, Marie has been a volunteer tour guide for Landis Valley Museum. There she has earned some fame for appearing on TV in support of the museum's services and for being in an article in Country Home magazine.

Marie is a member of a Pennsylvania German chorus in Berks County. She explained that her parents never spoke English to each other and that she grew up with a heavy Dutch accent for which she was ridiculed. Nevertheless, because the Pennsylvania Dutch language is part of our culture, she considers it a shame that it is dying out.

Marie is active in her church's missionary group where she does a lot of sewing for missions. She also waitresses for fire company banquets, volunteers at the Cedar Haven County Home and bakes, mostly angel food cakes, for friends.

As president of Farm Women, Marie hopes to increase membership. She pointed out that while many counties lost members last year, Lebanon gained. "A lot depends on how enthusiastic the president is," she said.

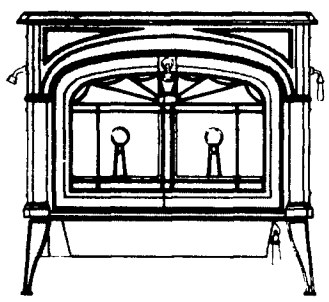
This is her second stint as county president, and Marie admitted that "It's a lot of hard work." But she added, "You don't get anything worthwhile without responsibility. Headaches are involved in everything."

Once again, her German stoicism is rising to the occasion. Lebanon farm women members can count on their president doing what needs to be done and doing it right.

Marie admits that although the dog belongs to her daughter, she has become deeply attached to it.

As a professional seamtress, Marie seldoms sits without some sewing in her hands.

A GREAT PERFORMANCE DESERVES AN ENCORE.



Vermont Castings has revolutionized the art of woodburning. Again. They did it the first time with the Defiant, a handsome, efficient woodstove with doors that opened for a view of the fire.

They've done it again with the Defiant Encore. With a strikingly beautiful design that will enhance any decor, a large, clear glass area for fire viewing, a super convenient ash removal system, and an incredibly clean-burning combustion system, the Encore is a tough act to follow.

Agribusiness Awards Presented At Pre-Show Banquet

BY
EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG — Nearly 600 persons were present at the annual Pre-Farm Show Dinner last Saturday night when State Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff presented two agribusiness awards for outstanding promotion of Pennsylvania agricultural products. The winners are:

Kessler's Inc. of Lemoyne, Cumberland County, and John F. Cope Co., Inc. of East Petersburg, Lancaster County. Accepting the awards were the companies' presidents, Dale Zoll of Kessler's Inc. and Thomas Cope of John Cope Co.

It marked the second time in the past five years that the selection committee had recommended that two firms be honored instead of the customary one.

"These two companies were initially competing for a single award," Wolff said. "But in the final analysis, the committee found that Kessler's and Cope actually complement each other.

"Two dynamic marketing strategies are unveiled here. Kessler's Inc. saw fit to concentrate most of its promotional and distribution efforts on a primary market area that embraces central and southeastern Pennsylvania and northeastern Maryland. John F. Cope Co., on the other hand, sought out markets for its products in the eastern United States, Oklahoma and Japan."

Wolff pointed out that each firm pursued the course that best suited its products and corporate strengths. "The fact that both have succeeded admirably is evidence of the strength of Pennsylvania's agribusinesses. This strength flourishes on diversity, initiative and persistence," he said.

Kessler's Inc., a meat specialty firm, traces its roots to the Genther Bologna Co., Easton, in 1916, and Kessler's Bologna Co., Lebanon, in 1924. In 1928 the George A. Kessler Provision Co. was located in Lemoyne, and became Kessler's, Inc. in 1945. In 1977 the company introduced one of its best-known products, Nittany Lion Franks.

It distributes its products through chain food markets, convenience and independent stores; restaurants, schools and institutions; and local farmers' markets. In its product packaging and advertising program, which includes 25,000 holiday gift catalogs, Kessler's promotes the "We're Growing Better" logo, administered by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

John F. Cope Co. began as a processor of dried sweet corn in 1900. It incorporated and acquired a competitor in 1960, then began marketing frozen corn in 1962. A number of new products, including sweet corn powder, frozen peas, frozen soups and flashed blanched mushrooms (a joint venture) have followed since 1980. The company will introduce frozen cob corn this year.

The introduction of new products has been accompanied by rapid expansion of Cope's sales volume, from $1.4 million in 1980 to $6.8 million last year.

Cope packages six products bearing the "We're Growing Better" logo, and the company is a regular participant in the Food Market Place at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Volunteer Needed For Extension Program

Volunteers are critically needed for the Volunteer Financial Counselor Training program set up by the New Castle County Cooperative Extension office, according to Debbie Amsden, Home Economist. She states that a need for the program is indicated by increasing reports from social service agents and weekly telephone calls to the Extension offices from families who are in debt or have recently had an income loss.

Volunteers need no previous experience and may develop personally helpful skills in the training program. They will be required to meet with 4 families during the year under the supervision of an Extension agent or volunteers may choose to help the program in other ways.

For 2 years, Cooperative Extension volunteers have been helping families develop spending plans and develop debt repayment plans. Over 100 families have been helped by families. Some need to learn more skills than others. There are many requests from people who want to learn effective money management skills.

A 6-week training program is scheduled for Mondays, beginning February 22, meeting through March 28, from 1 to 3 at the Rose Hill Community Center at 19 Lambson Lane in New Castle.

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer should request an application by calling the Cooperative Extension office in Newark at 451-1239 or in Wilmington at 571-2284. Applications are due February 1. Registration fee for the course is $5 which covers the cost for a notebook of materials. Scholarships are available.

Approved Conservation Plan Needed For USDA Program Benefits

UNIVERSITY PARK — Farmers without an approved conservation plan could lose their eligibility for USDA program benefits. That's because of the provisions of the Highly Erodible and Wetland Conservation Final Rule, which became effective September 17, 1987.

Part of title XII of the Food Security Act of 1985, the rule's primary concern is erosion control. Under the provisions, farmers who break out highly erodible land without an approved conservation plan, or who convert wet lands to commodity production, can lose eligibility for USDA programs. Farmers could not only lose price support benefits, but could also lose their eligibility for the Farmers Home Administration loans and loan guarantees, Commodity Credit Corporation Storage payments, disaster payments, Federal Crop Insurance and Conservation Reserve Program payments.

If a farmer has any doubt about the status of his land, he should contact his local Soil Conservation Service office for more information. For example, wetlands are not as easily identified as farmers may think. For land to be considered a wet land, it does not have to be marshy, a swamp or have water on the surface. A farmer does not want to find himself in a position of having done something today, even inadvertently, that could cost him his eligibility for the USDA program benefits mentioned above.

Under Conservation Compliance, farmers are expected to have a conservation plan for any highly erodible land by January 1, 1990. The conservation plan, which has to be developed by the SCS, has to meet all of the current standards and must be fully applied by January 1, 1995. Farmers who presently have a conservation plan need to have their plan reviewed and updated if necessary. Failure to meet either of these deadlines could result in the loss of eligibility.

Farmers are asked to act quickly if they need to adopt a conservation system. SCS personnel in Pennsylvania expect a work load of 12,000-14,000 plans by 1990, so farmers are not advised to wait until 1989 to seek assistance in developing a conservation plan.

Why is this so important? Society's position concerning farmers receiving public benefits is changing. Farmers are not being told not to farm their land, but rather to farm it in a reasonable and responsible manner. Society is asking farmers to adopt a conservation plan which will protect the land if they want to continue receiving publicly provided benefits.

Six Dairy Management Schools

ITHACA, N.Y. — Dairy farmers throughout the Northeast can sharpen their management skills to make their dairy operations more profitable by attending one of the six two-day schools on dairy management to be conducted in January and February by Cornell University and University of Maine dairy specialists.

The 1988 Northeast Winter Dairy Management Schools, sponsored jointly by Cornell and the Universities of Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont, are scheduled as follows:

• Jan. 19-20- Olean, N.Y. (Castle Inn and Restaurant).

• Jan. 21-22- Watertown, N.Y. (Ramada Inn).

• Jan. 26-27- Newburgh, N.Y. (Holiday Inn).

• Jan. 28-29- Oneonta, N.Y. (Holiday Inn).

• Feb. 2-3- Burlington, Vt. (Sheraton Inn).

• Feb. 4-5- East Windsor, Conn. (Ramada Inn).

According to coordinator Larry E. Chase, an associate professor of animal science in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell, the program, which will be repeated at each location, will feature presentations on animal nutrition, reproductive efficiency, handling young cattle, mastitis control and the latest research findings.

Specific topics to be discussed include mineral and vitamin nutrition, milking management, reproductive management, managing two-to-three-year-old cows, design and management of dairy cow stalls, feeding for peak performance, managing the feeding program for high-producing herds, balancing for carbohydrates, reproductive diseases, monitoring mastitis and the new format for DHI-SCC report, role of dairyman and veterinarian, new concepts for information management, and personnel management.

For more information about the schools and the program, contact Larry Chase, Morrison Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. 14853, or telephone him at (607) 255-2196.

Ohio Dairy Chosen To Test Milk Promotion

COLUMBUS, OH. — Superior Dairy in Canton, Ohio has been chosen by American Dairy Association (ADA) as one of two dairies to participate in a test promotion using labels on gallon milk containers as a new marketing vehicle.

Superior Dairy -- which services the state's Northeast -- and the New Jersey-based Dellwood Dairy, which services customers in the New York City Metro Area, began using a 2-inch by 4-inch promotional label on more than one million bio-mold milk containers.

The labels carry information about the Disney/American Dairy Association promotion, which offers consumers a $1.25 off any dairy product with the purchase of a "Lady and the Tramp" home video, and a $3.00 rebate off the price of the video, with five "REAL" Seals from dairy foods.

The gallon label promotion is being conducted simultaneously with the traditional half-gallon and quart side panel display. ADA will track consumer responses to the new gallon labels and side panel display using different post office box numbers.

"ADA's previous promotions have yielded a high level of consumer response when we've used the side panels of half-gallon and quart-sized cartons of milk," says Bob Ebel, manager of ADA Promotion Planning. "Now we're going to reach a larger audience, particularly families with children, by adding our promotion message to gallon-size containers of milk."

"The label is smaller than a side panel," Ebel notes, "but we think the message will be just as effective."

ADA previously tested the concept of advertising on blo-mold containers during last summer's "Cool It With Dairy Foods" promotion, in conjunction with Kellogg's. The participating dairies were Flavo-Rich in Atlanta and Twin Pines in Detroit.

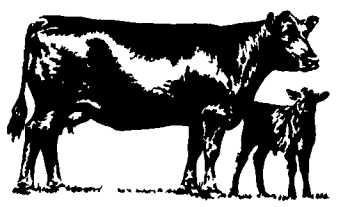
Microcomputers on The Farm Revisited

James W. Pease
Extension Economist,
Farm Management
Extension
The Pennsylvania
State University

In an earlier column, I explained the principal uses of microcomputers in farm businesses, which include financial recordkeeping, physical recordkeeping, and aids for production or marketing planning. Financial records are usually kept for documenting tax information, for providing information to obtain credit, or for making management decisions. Physical recordkeeping includes production records for crops or livestock, which provides a record of production, inputs, health or other categories of importance for management control. Planning functions with a microcomputer look to the future by either projecting past performance for some month or years ahead or by projecting the possible impacts of management changes. Other uses for a farm computer include word processing, education, entertainment and household management. In this column I'd like to describe a systematic process for identifying your information needs as a farm manager and for pinpointing which, if any, are 'computerizable.' Dr.. Steven Sonka, in his book "Computers in Farming," presents an excellent structured approach to identifying the information needs of your farm business and determining software and hardware appropriate to those needs. By identifying what information you need, when you need it, and how important it is in comparison with other information, you can proceed to locate and evaluate the software which could satisfy your information needs. Finally, with a clear set of information needs and suitable software in hand, you can identify the computer system which can operate that software. In other words, Sonka urges you to identify your requirements first, and you will be much better equipped for the confusing process of software and hardware evaluation. General areas of information needs should be examined. In particular, financial accounting and production records are usually the most critical areas of information needs. Let's look first at financial reporting. The specific reports needed should be identified. These will vary according to your information needs, but in general the reports include the following: cash flow statements (for taxes or for management); loan registers; depreciation schedules; income statements and balance sheets. In addition, enterprise cost accounting, projected versus actual cash flow reports, inventory reports, payroll and accounts receivable/payable are often needed for management. Each report should be categorized by answering the following questions: 1) How often is this report needed? Reports are typically required on a monthly, quarterly or annually basis. 2) How important is this report for the business? Typically, reports for tax purposes are extremely important for the business. Other reports are important, but not critical, while some other reports might be nice to have, but not critical. 3) Are the figures necessary for the report easily available? Sometimes a report is very important, but the numbers necessary to create the report are just not available. 4) Is the report currently prepared? If 'yes', then the data must be easily available. If 'no', and this is a very important report with easily available data, then this is a report worth preparing. 5) Given the answers to these questions, what priority do you see in computerizing this report relative to the other reports you have identified? Many managers would rank cash flow management at the highest priority for computerization. Other reports such as depreciation schedules may be just as important, but are not considered critical for computerization. I would suggest that you assign a priority of one to those reports most critical for computerization, and a priority decreasing to five for those least critical. If you have put more than three reports in any priority group, think harder about the relative importance of the reports. Set up a checklist for yourself with the report name on the side and the five characteristics above as columns, like the example below:

Report	How Often	How Important	Data Available	Prepared	Priority
Balance Sheet	Annual	Very Important	Yes	Yes	2
Cash Flow	Quarterly	Very Important	No	No	1



Now you should have a good feel for what financial reports are most important and computerizable. But many managers also want crop and livestock production reports. The same general process can be followed to identify production report needs. However, crop and livestock production

FOURTH YEAR

WL Competitors

W L Alfalfa varities are strong producers throughout the life of your stand You can't afford to settle for less.

If your alfalfa doesn't make it to the fourth year, you've reduced the overall profitability of your crop.

In test after test by public and private researchers, W-L alfalfa yields stack up for profits. For more than 25 years, W-L alfalfa varities have been bred for long stand persistence, quick recovery after cutting, multiple pest resistance and extra leafy, fine-stemmed forage. With proper crop management, you'll have strong fourth-year yields that stack up for a profitable crop.

reports are not as structured as financial reports. At planting time, you may want to know what fertilizer has been applied to a particular field over the past three years, while you may want to examine yield for all fields after harvest. You should be able to generally determine what sort of production report you will want, but here I'll concentrate on identifying what types of data should be included in the crop and livestock records system. The categories or questions you should ask yourself are:

1) Is the record per tract of land, per livestock lot, or per animal? 2) Is the cost or price of each item needed? For some items, such as fertilizers, chemicals, and feeds, you may want to record prices in order to analyze enterprise profitability in your financial reports. 3) How often are reports needed which use this item? Many crop production reports are only needed once per year, while livestock feeding records may be needed weekly or monthly. 4) How important is this item collected at the field, herd or individual animal basis? Some items such as feed records for individual dairy cows may be very important at the individual animal level, while feed records for hogs might be kept on a per litter basis. 5) Is the information about this item currently recorded in a satisfactory manner? Only you can judge whether your feed, fertilizer or other information is currently recorded such that you can access the right information about it at the right time. 6) What priority would you give to computerizing data for this item, given your answers to the previous questions? Use the same 1-5 scale as you used for prioritizing the financial records.

Again, set up a checklist for crop and livestock records needs, with the item on the side and the six characteristics above as columns. Here are some examples:

Item	Per:	How Often	How Important	Manner Reported	Priority
Seed	Land Tract	Annual	Important	Unsatisfactory	2
Fertilizer	Land Tract	Annual	Very Important	Unsatisfactory	1
Soil Tests	Land Tract	Annual	Very Important	Unsatisfactory	1

Collected How Currently Item Per: Often Important Recorded Priority

Seed Land tract Annual Important Unsatisfactory 2.

Fertilizer Land tract Annual Very Important Unsatisfactory 1.

Soil tests Land tract Annual Very Important Unsatisfactory 1.

You can use the same process to evaluate other types of information needs. Some examples include planning aids such as cash flow projections and income tax planning; marketing aids such as data collection and market analysis; strategic decisionmaking such as machinery investment analysis; or miscellaneous functions such as word processing. For each information function, identify how important is the information obtained, how often the information is needed, how satisfactory is the information currently obtained, and what priority this function has relative to other functions.

Now that you have a better grasp of your information needs, you have some benchmarks to evaluate computer software. Whether or not the software program exists to satisfy what you have identified as your needs, at least you will know what you're looking for. Generally, you should consider for computerization those functions which you have given priority levels 1 and 2, if these functions would have a major impact on your farm business profitability.

Terraces Combat Soil Erosion, Improve Tillage Or Sloping Ground

"For centuries farmers have effectively used terraces to combat soil erosion and improve tillage practices on sloping ground", says John Fior of the USDA Soil Conservation Service in Berks County. More than 4000 years ago the Incas terraced their steep hillsides, and over 2000 years ago rice fields were terraced in the Philippine Islands. The earliest types of terraces used in the United States were little more than hillside ditches with narrow ridges and deep channels which could not be farmed and eventually became weed and briar patches. These structures were often unsatisfactory as conservation measures because of poor engineering, poor construction, and maintenance problems. They were used mostly in the southern states where farmers followed continous rotations of corn, cotton, or tobacco.

"Terraces are widely used today in many parts of the world", says Fior. The vineyards of Europe, the rice paddies of South East Asia, and the wheat fields of Australia are just a few examples. These terraces are raised level benches supported on one or more sides by masonry walls or sloping banks of turf. "In the United States the term terrace has become identified with a hillside channel constructed for the purpose of diverting surface water runoff", says Fior. Surface water is intercepted by the terrace and diverted to a safe outlet. The slope length over which surface water travels is shortened and soil erosion is minimized. Surface water may also be stored in the terrace where it soaks into the ground and is available for crop use during drought periods. Terraces are recommended in high rainfall areas on sloping, highly erodible, intensively cropped farmland where basic conservation practices such as contouring and stripcropping are not sufficient protection against surface water runoff and soil erosion.

"In Pennsylvania diversion terraces and cropland terraces are the basic types used", says Fior. Diversion terraces are designed to carry water and are seeded with a permanent sod cover after construction. They should be maintained by periodic mowing and may be cropped for hay. These terraces are spaced 300 to 400 feet apart and may have deep wide channels depending on the size of the watershed draining into them, the steepness of the surrounding topography, and the type of vegetation on the watershed. "Cropland terraces are designed to be farmed in addition to diverting water and saving soil, says Fior. They are useful on gentle to moderately sloping farmland where intensive rotations of row crops and small grains with little or no hay crops are necessary to make farming profitable. Cropland terraces have wide shallow channels with low grades and gentle slopes that are easily farmed. They are generally more shallow than diversion terraces and spaced more closely together so that intensive cropping can be sustained without excessive surface water runoff and soil erosion. "Cropland terraces should always be supplemented with the best possible combination of conservation practices to maintain soil fertility and productivity", says Fior.

For further information on terraces or other conservation practices contact the Soil Conservation Service located in the Berks County Agricultural Center in Bern Township.

New Corn Products Will Boost Demand

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Companies across the country are developing new ways to use corn in non-food products which will increase demand for America's most bountiful crop.

Recent announcements from well-known companies such as Eastman Kodak, Cargill and Archer Daniels Midland (ADM) indicate the growing interest in using corn as a supply source for a host of products.

"Major commitments by these corporations are positive signs that the industrial use for corn is a growing market," said Keith Hora, president of the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) and a corn farmer from Riverside, IA.

Kodak recently announced plans to build a $50 million biotechnology center in Cedar Rapids, IA. It is Kodak's first major manufacturing plant of its kind, using new technology to produce food additives, pharmaceuticals, industrial enzymes and specialty chemicals from corn.

One reason Kodak chose the Iowa location, company officials said, was to be close to corn producers.

The plant is two years away from startup, said spokesman Christopher Veronda. Once in operation, some 2,000 to 5,000 bushels of corn per day will be purchased from wet millers, who in turn will offer a bigger market for area corn growers.

Once in full production, employment is expected to reach the 75 to 100 level.

The Cedar Rapids plant is designed for expansion if the market grows, Veronda said. "It has potential to develop in a very big way," he said of the new technology.

Snomax, a current Kodak product used for making artificial snow at ski resorts, will be made from corn as a result of the new technology.

Citric acid

Another new market for corn will come from the increased production of citric acid at Cargill's new plant in Eddyville, IA.

Construction will begin in mid-1988, said a Cargill spokesman, and is expected to take 18 months to complete.

Citric acid will be produced through a sophisticated fermentation process that uses liquid dextrose produced from corn as a feedstock, explained Ernest S. Micek, president of Cargill's Domestic Corn Milling Division.

In addition to use as a preservative in food and beverages, citric acid is used in pharmaceutical products and cosmetics. Another important use is in liquid detergent and household cleaners, where it is environmentally safer than phosphates.

Micek said the plant will have the capacity to produce about 60 million pounds of citric acid, using about 1.6 million bushels of corn each year.

Biodegradable plastic

Use of corn starch in production of biodegradable plastic could have a major impact on demand for corn, added Dick Burket, vice president for ADM in Decatur, IL.

ADM owns the patent rights on a process developed in England that combines corn starch and unsaturated polymers to produce a material that, after disposal, decomposes in two to three years.

The material would be ideal in production of plastic trash bags and styrofoam food containers, Burket said.

"We've already contacted food and beverage companies and other end users about it, and they are very interested," he said. "As there is more interest among the public about handling waste and about environmental concerns in general, there will be more attention given to things like biodegradable plastic containers that break down in the soil."

Samples from the process, called Master Batch, will be available next year, Burket said. Starch plants could simply incorporate the process in existing facilities, or new plants could be built to manufacture the material.

While no one knows for sure yet how much corn would be required, some participants at the NCGA sponsored National Corn Utilization Conference held earlier this year in St. Louis estimated 400 to 500 million bushels of corn per year could be consumed in the process.

That would be a welcome shot in the arm for corn prices.

"Our association has embarked on a program to develop new industrial uses for corn," added NCGA's Hora, "and we are seeing many positive responses by manufacturers that could greatly boost corn use and farmers' profits in the future."

Youth Judge Quality Poultry Meat

Young men and women in 4-H and FFA judging evaluate dressed poultry carcasses to learn how commercial companies and consumers evaluate quality in poultry. Poultry inspection and grading provides tools to do the following:

- To gain and keep consumer confidence.
- To set value and price of products sold.
- To respond to laws or regulations through cooperation with USDA or Food Safety Inspection Service to evaluate questions such as, is the meat edible, and can it be graded into quality packs of A, B, C, or No grade?
- To decide — is the meat condemned as not fit for human consumption? Why is it condemned?
- To meet the needs of the consumer in size of portion, age of bird, amount of fat or finish, texture, taste, appearance or safety.

There is a real need to get answers to these questions.

Judging by youngsters (ages 12 through 21), determines what defect or cause of downgrade or condemnation is present. Such things as cloudy air sacs, contamination, cadavers, poor bleed, injury, disease, parasite damage, or environmental damage can be seen. Girls frequently do better than boys at aesthetic evaluation such as appearance, odor, taste, ease of preparation in the kitchen. Students learn market classification, i.e., broiler, roaster, capon, etc. Quality of meat is a goal for everyone in poultry meat judging, inspection, or grading.

Youngsters learn to identify and correct defects in production such as skin damage due to poor floor litter quality in capon pens. Defects in processing such as poor fasting, bleeding, scalding, feather plucking can be seen or imagined by defects seen after slaughter in the carcass. Broken or disjointed bones, pin feathers, breast blisters, skin defects, must all be seen by a student judge to win a contest.

Each year 200 4-H and FFA members study to be a judge at State Judging Days. Only 50 to 60 members make it to the State Contest to judge.

Boys and girls compete for trophies, ribbons, national judging trips and cash prizes in their county, at state or national level.

Who would believe you could get real excited over a dead chicken — these people do. Judging ready-to-cook (RTC) poultry is only one of nine classes to make Pennsylvania Statewide Judging Days a tough, comprehensive experience.
